Opposition Mounts To Reds' Tests

'Disturbing News,' U.S. Declares On New Announcement

LONDON (AP)—Foreign criticism of Moscow's decision to stage a new series of nuclear weapons tests mounted slowly today. Long-anticipated, the Sunday announcement brought few immediate comments from weekending officials.

The United States deplored the announcement as "disturbing news" at a time when the disarmament conference in Geneva "is seeking new approaches for an agreement on a nuclear test ban treaty.

The State Department said "the world need hardly be reminded" that the Soviet Union touched off new rounds of nuclear weapon testing last September when it broke a moratorium which had existed for almost three years.

The Moscow announcement did not say when the tests will begin, but it is assumed the first blast will be touched off in Siberia soon.

In Britain, the proposed new Soviet tests sent anti-nuclear pickets hurrying from outside the U.S. Embassy in London to the Soviet Embassy. The pickets had been parading in protest against the U.S. tests in the Pacific.

A group of young Britons said they hoped to recruit an international crew to sail a lifeboat into Leningrad harbor in September to protest the Soviet decision.

The liberal British newspaper Guardian urged that the West press for an agreement to end all further tests as soon as the new Soviet tests are finished. The paper said a Soviet claim to have an automatic right to test last is absurd.

Japanese Foreign Ministry sources described the Soviet decision as regrettable. A government spokesman said Japan will file a protest with the Soviet Union "in two or three days."

Meteorological officials said principal Japanese concern was whether the new test series would shower Japan with radioactive fallout as the Soviet tests last year did.

District Waits More Rain To Lift Dry Spell

After two light showers early this morning, dark clouds continued to hang over the district, holding a promise of more rain to help lift the long drought for farmers and home gardeners.

The Ohio forecaster said there will be more scattered showers today and tonight, but he had no promise of rain for Tuesday. Today's high will range between 76 and 82 degrees and the overnight low will hit 58-64, the forecaster said.

Some parts of Columbiana County received a comparatively light rain Saturday afternoon.

Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport, measured twenty-hundredths of an inch. No rain had fallen early this morning in Millport, although East Liverpool had a shower at 5 and another about an hour later, followed by several mild sprinkles.

Saturday's rain "will help a little, but we need more," Copeland said.

He called it a "nice little shower," but far short of the amount farmers need to snap a drought. The area's last heavy rain was on July 3. Crops have been retarded severely for lack of water.

Meanwhile, Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania listed Beaver County among nine additional counties that the Department of Agriculture has been asked to declare "disaster areas" because of the drought.

Listing as a disaster area entitles farmers to make low-cost loans. Forty Pennsylvania counties already have been given the designation by Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman.

The rain this morning hiked the humidity, but comparatively cool temperatures prevailed under the cloudy skies. The overnight low in the downtown area was 65.

Firm Entered Twice

Burglars Obtain $450 In Loot At Potters Lumber

A weekend double - header of burglaries at the Potters Lumber Co. near Calcutta — from which some $450 in postal supplies and cash were taken Saturday night and power tools and other items Sunday night — was being investigated today by federal postal officials and sheriff's deputies.

Intruders used a car or truck jack to bend metal bars on rear doors of the long one-story structure along Route 170 west of Calcutta sometime Saturday night, when the contract post office was looted.

Boarding over the damaged doors was ripped away last night when the intruders attempted to batter their way into a large walk-in safe.

Investigation of the postal burglary and inventory of the losses in the store Saturday and Sunday was held up today because company and postal records are locked in the large safe, which cannot be opened because of the extensive damage to the tumblers and dial.

A safe technician from Canton was being awaited by officials of the firm and investigators.

East Liverpool Postmaster Samuel Brown said the burglars obtained about $350 in stamps and around $100 in cash Saturday night. Double-locked drawers in the postal section of the store were ripped open to get at the supplies and money.

The equipment loss, tabulated so far by deputies, included two power saws, three electric drills, eight burning kits, a soldering gun, three clocks, two pocket watches, two electric irons and an electric skillet. The equipment loss was estimated at $210.

The loss was discovered Sunday morning by Tom Russell, janitor for the lumber firm and construction company in the same building.

Herman Hunt of Youngstown, U. S. postal inspector, began the preliminary investigation yesterday, and was slated to return today after the large safe is opened, according to Brown.

The damaged doors at the rear of the building were boarded up yesterday, and the thieves ripped this covering off last night or early today to enter the building.

The burglars attempted to enter the huge safe, hammering off the dial and hinges and drilling a hole through a wall in an adjoining room in the unsuccessful bid to crack the vault.

This entering was first found this morning by Jack Smith, secretary of the firm. David (Pete) Beatty, vice president, said there was little money in the large safe, but it does contain vital records.

Another safe, a floor type, is left open in the offices, bearing a note that it contains only records. The intruders rifled this safe, also, Beatty said.

Deputy Robert Beresford investigated the Saturday entering, and Chief Deputy James Miller was investigating the second entry.

Europe Due News Parley Via 'Telstar'

TV Shows Include Kennedy, Big Ben, Vatican, Ball Game

WASHINGTON (AP) — American engineers beam a live telecast of President Kennedy's news conference to European homes today through the magic of the Telstar communications satellite.

In the first formal exchange of live television shows across the Atlantic, European viewers also may see: Part of a major league baseball game in Chicago, South Dakota's Mount Rushmore Memorial, the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor, San Francisco's Golden Gate, Niagara Falls and the Seattle World's Fair.

Three hours later, if all goes well, American viewers will not have to leave their armchairs to see the art treasures of the Louvre in Paris, Michelangelo's paintings in the Vatican's Sistine Chapel, the Big Ben clock atop the Houses of Parliament, a glimpse of an opera in Rome and laplanders herding reindeer 50 miles below the Arctic Circle.

The two programs will run at least 15 minutes each and both will be televised in the United States by the three major networks, ABC, CBS and NBC. British television officials estimated 200 million persons on both sides of the Atlantic will watch the shows.

Jesse E. Wilson, 53, of 300 W. Washington St., Lisbon, secretary - treasurer of the Salem China Co., died Sunday at 8:20 a. m. at Salem City Hospital of injuries suffered in a traffic mishap July 13 on County Rd. 416 about two miles north of Route 164 between Lisbon and Leetonia.

Mr. Wilson's auto was involved in a collision with a car operated by Ronald L. Kaiser, 23, of 252 N. Spruce St., Columbiana, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon, which investigated. Three others were hurt in the mishap.

Dr. William Kolozsi of Salem, county coroner, ruled Mr. Wilson's death a traffic fatality. Death was caused by brain damage and pneumonia was a contributing factor, the coroner said.

Mr. Wilson became the 18th traffic victim in Columbiana County in 1962, compared with eight at the same time in 1961.

Mr. Wilson was born Jan. 1, 1909, in Lisbon, a son of William

Sunday Launch Studied

New Venus Shot Pushed Despite Rocket's Failure

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The nation's space agency pushed ahead today with plans to launch a second spacecraft to the planet Venus while technicians and engineers probed the failure of the first attempt.

The United States' initial effort to propel a vehicle to explore Venus failed early Sunday. The Atlas-Agena B booster rocket strayed off course and was destroyed nearly 100 miles above the Atlantic Ocean by the range safety officer. The electronic signal that killed the rocket was flashed 290 seconds after launching.

Flaming wreckage of the $8 million-rocket and $4 million-Mariner 1 payload plummeted into the sea. The spacecraft had been ticketed for a 139-day interplanetary journey designed to take it within 10,000 miles of the cloud-shrouded Venus next Dec. 8.

Even before data could be analyzed to determine exactly what went wrong, crews started preparing the launching pad for another Atlas-Agena B and the Mariner 2 payload.

Time was the deciding factor in moving forward before data from the first shot had been completely analyzed. Venus comes into favorable shooting range only every 19 months and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration does not want to pass up an opportunity to send a spacecraft

Big Airliner Smashes Up At Honolulu

Emergency Landing Attempted As One Of Engines Fails

HONOLULU (AP)—Twenty-seven persons, including two infants, died today when a disabled Canadian Pacific turbo-jet airliner with 40 persons aboard crashed and burned in an emergency landing attempt.

The Federal Aviation Agency said the big Britannia aircraft which originated in Vancouver, B.C., was en route to Sydney, Australia, and Auckland, New Zealand, via Honolulu when one of its engines apparently failed shortly after takeoff here.

The craft left Honolulu International Airport with 29 passengers and 11 crewmen and returned about 45 minutes later after the pilot dumped fuel over the Pacific in preparation for the landing.

D. J. Tierney, FAA spokesman, said the plane approached the runway for a normal landing on three engines at 11:19 p.m. But then skidded into a mass of grading equipment nearby, the fuselage snapped and the engines burst into flames.

Wreckage was strewn over an area the size of a football field.

The condition of the survivors, who were taken to nearby Hickham Air Force Base Hospital, was not immediately known.

The FAA said the pilot notified its control tower he was cutting one of the engines soon after takeoff. He requested and was granted permission to dump fuel for the emergency landing, officials said.

Youth's Arm Hurt By Knife On E. 4th

A 15-year-old East Liverpool newsboy told police he was robbed of $31.90 Sunday afternoon on E. 4th St. by two men who approached him on the pretext of obtaining change for a $5 bill.

The robbery was reported at 2:19 p. m. by James E. Everhart, 800 Dresden Ave., a newspaper carrier for the Tri-State News Agency of Union St.

He told Patrolmen Orin C. Smith and Charles E. (Bill) Tice the men took $31.90 in bills and change, along with a metal coin-changing device and his wallet. One of the men menaced him with a knife, nicking his right arm, he said.

Everhart told the officers he was walking east on E. 4th St. in front of the Carnegie Public Library when a dark green 1952 Chevrolet pulled to the curb and one of the men asked him if he had change for a $5 bill.

Before he could answer, Everhart said, one of the men grabbed him and took the money, the coin-changer and his wallet. He said one of the men pulled a knife —flicking open the blade with a button on the handle—and menaced him with it. He said his right arm was nicked slightly by the knife.

Founder Of Milk Firm Killed In Collision

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—James J. Lawson, 74-year-old founder of the Lawson Milk Co., was killed today in a traffic collision at Stow, where he made his home.

Authorities said Lawson's car and a truck collided at a curve on Graham Road, and the Lawson car veered off the road.

Lawson has been called the father of the gallon milk jug. He started marketing milk in the big jugs at his stores in northern Ohio during the 1930's. The chain of some 300 stores was sold in 1959 to Consolidated Foods Corp., but Lawson continued as chairman of the organization he founded.

Leftist Bloc Breaks Off In Algerian Rift

Sets Up Framework For Rival Regime In Strife-Hit Nation

TLEMCEN, Algeria (AP) — Ahmed Ben Bella's leftist radicals broke completely with the moderate government of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda Sunday night and set up the framework for a rival regime to take the helm of this newly independent nation.

The dissidents proclaimed themselves the rightful leaders of the National Liberation Front (FLN), Algeria's dominant political and military group. They announced formation of a seven-man political bureau "qualified to assume the leadership of the country, the reconversion and reorganization of the party and the national army, and the construction of the state."

Accusing Ben Khedda of establishing a police state, the dissidents called on Algerians to rally to Ben Bella and establish "freedom, security, dignity, legality and true democracy" in Algeria.

There was no indication that Ben Bella planned to move on Algiers with the 45,000-strong regular army to overthrow Ben Khedda by force. The government has only a much smaller guerrilla force with which to oppose such a move.

The declaration, read to a news conference in the presence of Ben Bella, was issued after the rebels apparently lost patience with a conference of guerrilla leaders who had been trying since last Tuesday to work out a compromise agreement between the rival factions.

In Algiers, spokesmen for the Ben Khedda government declined immediate comment.

Independence, Neutrality

14 Nations Sign Treaty On Laos

GENEVA (AP) — Delegates of 14 nations today signed a treaty of independence and neutrality for Laos formally bringing to a close 14 long months of efforts to restore peace to the Asian Kingdom.

When all had signed, neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma of Laos declared:

"We shall fulfill the obligations of the conference imposed on us. We shall do everything to maintain an independent, prosperous and neutral Laos."

In Moscow, Premier Khrushchev hailed the treaty as eliminating "a dangerous seat of war" in Southeast Asia.

The agreement included two documents plus a declaration of neutrality and a protocol covering the withdrawal of foreign troops from Laos.

The 14-nation conference assembled to deal with the crisis reached agreement last Wednesday. Since then the foreign ministers gathering to sign the treaty have been occupied with other, unsettled problems, especially Berlin, Germany, nuclear testing and disarmament.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko have met twice for long talks on the major East-West issues. Both Gromyko and American sources have indicated there probably will be another meeting before they leave Geneva.

There has been no indication that the Rusk-Gromyko meetings have produced any change in either the Soviet or American positions on the major issues.

The Laotian agreement provides for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Laos within 75 days and security of its frontiers against further infiltration by foreign elements. This means both U.S. military advisers and their support personnel and Communist troops from North Viet Nam must leave the country.

A number of western delegation chiefs have pointed out that the test of the agreement still lies ahead in its application.

Compliance with the treaty is to be monitored by an international control commission made up of India, Poland and Canada. The three countries have had no success so far in supervising a ceasefire in the jungle country because the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces refused to let them check any reported violations.

Doors Opened Today

People's Drug Occupies New Quarters On E. 5th

The People's Service Drugstore began operations today at its new quarters, 115-117 E. 5th St.

It is occupying the building which was formerly the home of Milligan's Hardware. The ground-level floor will be the drugstore proper, with the remainder of the building being used for storage purposes.

People's had been located at E. 5th and Market Sts. since 1929 previous to moving into its new location.

William F. O'Neil, who has been with the present store 11 years and the company 27 years, will continue as manager. He said 25 will be employed in the new operation.

The ground-level floor has been completely remodeled, he pointed out, with soft goods, baby, pet and toy departments among the new features. An enlarged lunch counter also is among the improvements.

O'Neil said a "self-service" plan is being offered.

A grand opening is scheduled Friday, Aug. 3. Store hours are 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. during the week and 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. on Sunday.

People's was founded in Washington, D. C., and now has 216 stores in seven states.

G. B. Burrus is president and J. S. Bishop director of store operations. Their offices are in Washington.

Unions Delay Missile Plant Strike Move

Labor Units Agree To Postponement At Kennedy Move

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two big unions have agreed to President Kennedy's request for a postponement of a threatened aerospace industry strike—giving negotiators 60 days to seek a settlement.

Labor contract talks were scheduled to resume here today.

United Aerospace Workers at Ryan Aircraft in San Diego and North American Aviation in Los Angeles agreed to the 60-day postponement Sunday.

The International Association of Machinists accepted the President's recommendation on Saturday. The IAM had planned to strike General Dynamics-Convair and Lockheed.

Delay of the strike, originally scheduled for noon today, will give labor and management a chance to work out their differences under the mediation of a special three-man board appointed Saturday by the President.

The walkout would have involved about 150,000 workers at 53 plants and missile bases throughout the nation.

Although there was no indication that an industry-wide settlement was near, UAW members at the Douglas Long Beach plant voted Sunday to ratify an agreement reached by company and union negotiators last Monday.

The Douglas agreement included a 25-cent an hour increase, supplemental unemployment benefits and an agency shop which would require non-union workers to pay fees to the union for acting as bargaining agent.

The United Aerospace Workers are affiliated with the United Auto Workers.

In other action Sunday IAM workers at Lockheed Aircraft's Burbank, Calif. plant rejected the company's latest offer.

Kennedy's move in calling for the strike postponement came as a surprise to some union and management leaders.

They had expected him to make use of the Taft-Hartley Act and obtain an injunction which would have postponed a strike for 80 days.

The procedure adopted by the President enables him to use the Taft-Hartley powers at the end of the 60-day period.

Leftist Bloc Breaks Off In Algerian Rift

Sets Up Framework For Rival Regime In Strife-Hit Nation

TLEMCEN, Algeria (AP) — Ahmed Ben Bella's leftist radicals broke completely with the moderate government of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda Sunday night and set up the framework for a rival regime to take the helm of this newly independent nation.

The dissidents proclaimed themselves the rightful leaders of the National Liberation Front (FLN), Algeria's dominant political and military group. They announced formation of a seven-man political bureau "qualified to assume the leadership of the country, the reconversion and reorganization of the party and the national army, and the construction of the state."

Accusing Ben Khedda of establishing a police state, the dissidents called on Algerians to rally to Ben Bella and establish "freedom, security, dignity, legality and true democracy" in Algeria.

There was no indication that Ben Bella planned to move on Algiers with the 45,000-strong regular army to overthrow Ben Khedda by force. The government has only a much smaller guerrilla force with which to oppose such a move.

The declaration, read to a news conference in the presence of Ben Bella, was issued after the rebels apparently lost patience with a conference of guerrilla leaders who had been trying since last Tuesday to work out a compromise agreement between the rival factions.

In Algiers, spokesmen for the Ben Khedda government declined immediate comment.

Independence, Neutrality

14 Nations Sign Treaty On Laos

GENEVA (AP) — Delegates of 14 nations today signed a treaty of independence and neutrality for Laos formally bringing to a close 14 long months of efforts to restore peace to the Asian Kingdom.

When all had signed, neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma of Laos declared:

"We shall fulfill the obligations of the conference imposed on us. We shall do everything to maintain an independent, prosperous and neutral Laos."

In Moscow, Premier Khrushchev hailed the treaty as eliminating "a dangerous seat of war" in Southeast Asia.

The agreement included two documents plus a declaration of neutrality and a protocol covering the withdrawal of foreign troops from Laos.

The 14-nation conference assembled to deal with the crisis reached agreement last Wednesday. Since then the foreign ministers gathering to sign the treaty have been occupied with other, unsettled problems, especially Berlin, Germany, nuclear testing and disarmament.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko have met twice for long talks on the major East-West issues. Both Gromyko and American sources have indicated there probably will be another meeting before they leave Geneva.

There has been no indication that the Rusk-Gromyko meetings have produced any change in either the Soviet or American positions on the major issues.

The Laotian agreement provides for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Laos within 75 days and security of its frontiers against further infiltration by foreign elements. This means both U.S. military advisers and their support personnel and Communist troops from North Viet Nam must leave the country.

A number of western delegation chiefs have pointed out that the test of the agreement still lies ahead in its application.

Compliance with the treaty is to be monitored by an international control commission made up of India, Poland and Canada. The three countries have had no success so far in supervising a ceasefire in the jungle country because the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces refused to let them check any reported violations.

Doors Opened Today

People's Drug Occupies New Quarters On E. 5th

The People's Service Drugstore began operations today at its new quarters, 115-117 E. 5th St.

It is occupying the building which was formerly the home of Milligan's Hardware. The ground-level floor will be the drugstore proper, with the remainder of the building being used for storage purposes.

People's had been located at E. 5th and Market Sts. since 1929 previous to moving into its new location.

William F. O'Neil, who has been with the present store 11 years and the company 27 years, will continue as manager. He said 25 will be employed in the new operation.

The ground-level floor has been completely remodeled, he pointed out, with soft goods, baby, pet and toy departments among the new features. An enlarged lunch counter also is among the improvements.

O'Neil said a "self-service" plan is being offered.

A grand opening is scheduled Friday, Aug. 3. Store hours are 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. during the week and 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. on Sunday.

People's was founded in Washington, D. C., and now has 216 stores in seven states.

G. B. Burrus is president and J. S. Bishop director of store operations. Their offices are in Washington.

Unions Delay Missile Plant Strike Move

Labor Units Agree To Postponement At Kennedy Move

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two big unions have agreed to President Kennedy's request for a postponement of a threatened aerospace industry strike—giving negotiators 60 days to seek a settlement.

Labor contract talks were scheduled to resume here today.

United Aerospace Workers at Ryan Aircraft in San Diego and North American Aviation in Los Angeles agreed to the 60-day postponement Sunday.

The International Association of Machinists accepted the President's recommendation on Saturday. The IAM had planned to strike General Dynamics-Convair and Lockheed.

Delay of the strike, originally scheduled for noon today, will give labor and management a chance to work out their differences under the mediation of a special three-man board appointed Saturday by the President.

The walkout would have involved about 150,000 workers at 53 plants and missile bases throughout the nation.

Although there was no indication that an industry-wide settlement was near, UAW members at the Douglas Long Beach plant voted Sunday to ratify an agreement reached by company and union negotiators last Monday.

The Douglas agreement included a 25-cent an hour increase, supplemental unemployment benefits and an agency shop which would require non-union workers to pay fees to the union for acting as bargaining agent.

The United Aerospace Workers are affiliated with the United Auto Workers.

In other action Sunday IAM workers at Lockheed Aircraft's Burbank, Calif. plant rejected the company's latest offer.

Kennedy's move in calling for the strike postponement came as a surprise to some union and management leaders.

They had expected him to make use of the Taft-Hartley Act and obtain an injunction which would have postponed a strike for 80 days.

The procedure adopted by the President enables him to use the Taft-Hartley powers at the end of the 60-day period.

The political bureau originally was created by the National Council of the Algerian Revolution (CNRA) at a meeting in Tripoli, Libya, on June 7, nearly a month before Algeria became independent.

Ben Khedda and his supporters, who control only about one-third of the CNRA's 72 members, walked out of the Tripoli meeting in protest against the makeup of the political bureau.

Ben Bella has demanded ever since that Ben Khedda should "return to legality" by recognizing the CNRA decision.

Negroes Eye Court Action

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Integrationists seek court action today to upset a federal judge's injunction barring them from staging mass demonstrations and other desegregation activities in Albany.

The legal move follows integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s charge that a few Southern federal judges are engaged in a conspiracy with political leaders to maintain segregation.

William Kunstler, of New York, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, had a petition ready for filing with U.S. Dist. Judge W. A. Bootle at Macon, 112 miles north of this southwest Georgia city.

Kunstler, assigned to help in the Albany integration movement, said he hoped Bootle would nullify an injunction issued Friday night by another U.S. District Judge, J. Robert Elliott of Columbus.

Kunstler said the petition was based on the contention that Elliott lacked jurisdiction.

Despite's Elliott's broad injunctive decree, 160 Negroes and one white youth marched to the downtown area Saturday night and were jailed after more than 100 fell to their knees and prayed on the sidewalk.

Eisenhower Returns To Europe As Tourist

CHERBOURG, France (AP) — Former President Eisenhower returned to France as an honored tourist today with a quick look from the train window at the Normandy battlefield area in store for him.

Eisenhower, his wife, Mamie, and grandchildren Barbara Anne and David, arrived aboard the Queen Elizabeth for a six-week European tour.

The wartime Allied commander's return to Normandy came about by chance. He had orginally been scheduled to arrive on the liner France at Le Havre, west of Normandy, and his train to Paris would have missed Normandy. When a strike delayed the sailing of the France, Eisenhower switched to the Queen Elizabeth, which docks at Cherbourg.

The train from Cherbourg to Paris passes through Sainte Mere Eglise, Carentan, Bayeux, and Caen, all key points in the Allied invasion that began on June 6, 1944.

And it said he passed the sixth grade.

Compromise Eyed In Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration has revived its hopes of prying out of a Senate-House conference committee a compromise bill to provide federal aid for higher education.

If this can be accomplished—and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., predicted today it can — President Kennedy may improve the sagging batting average of his legislative program.

In the weeks before a possible Labor Day adjournment, the administration apparently will be heavily engaged in a salvage operation aimed at nullifying the Republican charge that a Democratic president has failed to get any important accomplishment out of a Democratic Congress.

In rebuttal, Kennedy obviously is going to be able to point to a new international trade bill on which the Senate Finance Committee begins public hearings today. This measure, revised in the House before passage there, has attracted bipartisan support.

But the President needs more than this before he can do much pointing with pride to the record of the Democratic Congress which he will be compelled to defend in the November elections.

Negroes Eye Court Action

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Integrationists seek court action today to upset a federal judge's injunction barring them from staging mass demonstrations and other desegregation activities in Albany.

The legal move follows integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s charge that a few Southern federal judges are engaged in a conspiracy with political leaders to maintain segregation.

William Kunstler, of New York, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, had a petition ready for filing with U.S. Dist. Judge W. A. Bootle at Macon, 112 miles north of this southwest Georgia city.

Kunstler, assigned to help in the Albany integration movement, said he hoped Bootle would nullify an injunction issued Friday night by another U.S. District Judge, J. Robert Elliott of Columbus.

Kunstler said the petition was based on the contention that Elliott lacked jurisdiction.

Despite's Elliott's broad injunctive decree, 160 Negroes and one white youth marched to the downtown area Saturday night and were jailed after more than 100 fell to their knees and prayed on the sidewalk.

Eisenhower Returns To Europe As Tourist

CHERBOURG, France (AP) — Former President Eisenhower returned to France as an honored tourist today with a quick look from the train window at the Normandy battlefield area in store for him.

Eisenhower, his wife, Mamie, and grandchildren Barbara Anne and David, arrived aboard the Queen Elizabeth for a six-week European tour.

The wartime Allied commander's return to Normandy came about by chance. He had orginally been scheduled to arrive on the liner France at Le Havre, west of Normandy, and his train to Paris would have missed Normandy. When a strike delayed the sailing of the France, Eisenhower switched to the Queen Elizabeth, which docks at Cherbourg.

The train from Cherbourg to Paris passes through Sainte Mere Eglise, Carentan, Bayeux, and Caen, all key points in the Allied invasion that began on June 6, 1944.

Doggone Good Pupil, Report Card Shows

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Freddie, a dog of dubious descent, was assigned a desk just like any other pupil when he began following his young master, Kenneth Fisher, to school.

When school was out, Freddie received a report card. It noted that he was a "true, faithful and quiet pupil' and "always follows rules and regulations."

And it said he passed the sixth grade.

Compromise Eyed In Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration has revived its hopes of prying out of a Senate-House conference committee a compromise bill to provide federal aid for higher education.

If this can be accomplished—and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., predicted today it can — President Kennedy may improve the sagging batting average of his legislative program.

In the weeks before a possible Labor Day adjournment, the administration apparently will be heavily engaged in a salvage operation aimed at nullifying the Republican charge that a Democratic president has failed to get any important accomplishment out of a Democratic Congress.

In rebuttal, Kennedy obviously is going to be able to point to a new international trade bill on which the Senate Finance Committee begins public hearings today. This measure, revised in the House before passage there, has attracted bipartisan support.

But the President needs more than this before he can do much pointing with pride to the record of the Democratic Congress which he will be compelled to defend in the November elections.

If Business Had Its Way

H. Ladd Plumley, president of U.S. Chamber of Commerce, was laying things on the line pretty straight the other day when he told newsmen he wondered whether President Kennedy knows what makes American business tick.

He said this after a luncheon at the White House. He came away from the luncheon in a state of uncertainty. What bothers business, he explained, is that it wants conditions that are "predictable and plottable" so it can plan ahead. Mr. Kenneyd keeps shifting his course, said Mr. Plumley.

Even Mr. Plumley must admit, nevertheless, that in matters like the new formulas for depreciation announced recently the President couldn't have been friendlier to business if he had been H. Ladd Plumley in person.

In fact if H. Ladd Plumley found himself in the White House he would learn in a great hurry why no chief executive is in a position to remove business uncertainty. Even President Eisenhower, who was not inclined to poke business in the eye unnecessarily, couldn't make conditions "predictable and plottable." The country kept having these pesky "recessions."

PRESIDENT KENNEDY has a special problem. He wasn't elected by a landslide. He squeaked in and is expecting another squeaker in 1964.

He does not have the privilege Franklin D. Roosevelt had of abusing business because he didn't need its support at the polls and knew he couldn't get it. Mr. Kennedy must do the best he can to make friends in all factions and fractions of the electorate.

The labor unionists who backed him are uneasy about him and Labor Secretary Goldberg for the same reason Mr. Plumley is uneasy. It is impossible to think offhand of any one group in this country that isn't uneasy about the Kennedy administration. It doesn't clearly knuckle under to any minority and it is well to remember in this regard that during the 1960 campaign it set a pattern when Mr. Kennedy declared he even would do his own thinking about the application of Catholic principles to matters in his jurisdiction.

IT WOULD be nice if business had "predictable and plottable" conditions. It would be nice if everybody could plan ahead, knowing things always would be stable and orderly; that the rules wouldn't be changed; that the winds would be favorable and all tides would run in their favor.

Much as we wish President Kennedy could make it be so for the sake of all of us, it is fatuous for the president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce to wish it could be that way for the peculiar benefit of businessmen.

If Mr. Plumley himself landed in the White House and had any notion of staying there he would know why every chief executive ends up by playing both ends against the middle.

It's the only way to survive in a two-party system of government.

Keep To The Left

By Truman Twill

The car we used in Britain was an Austin Cambridge, a easy-riding model designed to carry back-seat passengers. I mention this because not all sedan compacts are designed with this in mind.

It had a large luggage compartment, a rack under the dash for keeping maps, food, candy and other necessities of travel and would run indefinitely on a tank of gas. Studying it under various driving conditions in Britain I understood for the first time why their cars are shorter than ours.

Like Abraham Lincoln's legs, which he said were long enough to reach the ground, British cars are long enough to do what they're supposed to do. One of the chief things they're supposed to do is get around some of the world's tightest corners.

Length and width are not only superfluous; they are out of the question. Even poshy cars are short and make no mistake about British posh. Their Rolls Royces, Bentleys, Jaguars and Rovers are as nice as cars can be built. But that's the other side of the tracks.

Ordinary Britons routinely use motor bikes and bicycles, sometimes with power attachments. Scooters are popular. Sidecars are common, as are three-wheeled cars made by Fiat and Messerschmitt. In general, automobiles are small, but it works out fine.

In a court that has many narrow streets, tight turns and gasoline that sells for more than 70 cents a gallon, people own what they can afford. Bearing in mind that an imperial gallon contains five quarts and British engines get high mileage, a working stiff there pays about the same share of income for transportation as a working stiff here.

A visitor notes that all transportation is functional—double-deck buses for crowded cities; cabs designed to be ridden in, with extra head room, separate driver compartment and unenclosed luggage space next to it; bicycles for errands such as shopping (even old women ride them) and many makes of cab-over-engine vans that were the predecessors of the efficient vans now popular here. We saw these being used for outings, with seats inside for up to 10 passengers.

The people are big for picnicking. Many carry folding chairs and a folding table in their cars. They pull into a "lay-by" and have all the comforts of home in a jiffy. There are no roadside eating stands.

Motor-bikers are required by law to wear crash helmets. They are required by the weather to wear goggles, wind masks and wind-and-weather-proof clothing. They look like men from Mars until they unmask. They nearly always ride double and most of the time it's a he-she combination. Even babies go along in slings on their mother's enclosed sidecars.

Ony one large vehicle is more noticeable than the universal double-deck buses that everybody sees in London but which are in all other cities too, sometimes painted colors besides the famous London red. Luxury motor coaches are everywhere, filled with tourists.

The tourists we saw were not Americans. On our 1,200-mile trip we saw scarcely any Americans because we were off the beaten paths most of the time. These coaches with their invariable bouquets of flowers and observation roofs were filled with Britons seeing their own country. Many were middle-aged women whose clothes and manners marked them as middle middle-class housewives.

Highway courtesy is conspicuous. Safe driving is conspicuous. After a few days you never think about keeping left. That is, you don't think about it in the back seat. I had thought at times about driving, then I'd be fine unless I got into a jam, then my lifelong conditioned reflex would prompt me to swing in the wrong direction.

It was more sensible to let our son do the driving. He never had driven a car in Britain before but he had been bicycling there for upward of a year and had the necessary reflexes. Besides, he is a better driver than his old man anyway, except this must never come to his attention and never will unless someone tattles.

Paging Mr. Bowles

By David Wise

Whatever happened to Chester Bowles?

In the softness of a summer night along the Potomac, his name is heard no more amid the garden party chatter about Teddy, Sarge, Arthur, the Peace Corps, and the other fashionable topics. He is the forgotten man of the New Frontier.

Only eight months ago, his name was headline news. Only two years ago, it was a campaign issue. Standing in the great square at Nashville, Tenn., in October, 1960, Richard M. Nixon was moved to declare:

"I can say here standing on ground which has been hallowed by Andrew Jackson that he would turn over in his grave if he thought that this party of Schlesinger, of Bowles and Galbraith was the Democratic party of which he was proud to be a member."

Well, in 1962, John Kenneth Galbraith, United States ambassador to India, and Arthur M. Schlesinger, special assistant to the President, are still dodging the brickbats.

Mr. Galbraith has been criticized for traveling around so much. And Mr. Schlesinger has had to explain why he's moonlighting movie reviews and losing his balance around swimming pools.

But not Mr. Bowles. He doesn't have to defend himself any more because nobody is attacking him. And nobody is attacking him because they can't see him.

THE FACT is that Chester Bowles is still very much on the New Frontier, but he has gone underground. He is taking trips as the President's special representative and adviser on Africa, Asia and Latin America. He is writing memos, which are acted upon. And he gets in to see the President—with more frequency than when he was under secretary of state.

In a quiet way, he is still an active figure in the administration, although no longer a central one and no longer in the chain of command between President Kennedy and the State Department.

Almost nobody noticed last month when Mr. Bowles called on the President at the White House to deliver a memo on Far Eastern policy, including the then boiling situation in the Formosa Straits. Equally unpublicized was another memo from Mr. Bowles to the President on the organization of the State Department and Foreign Service. The President reportedly liked it.

And so, a kind of calm has come to the Kennedy-Bowles relationship. The storm that preceded it really began shortly after Mr. Bowles, a boy wonder of Madison Avenue, wartime OPA Administrator, governor of Connecticut, and ambassador to India, joined the Kennedy Bandwagon early in 1960.

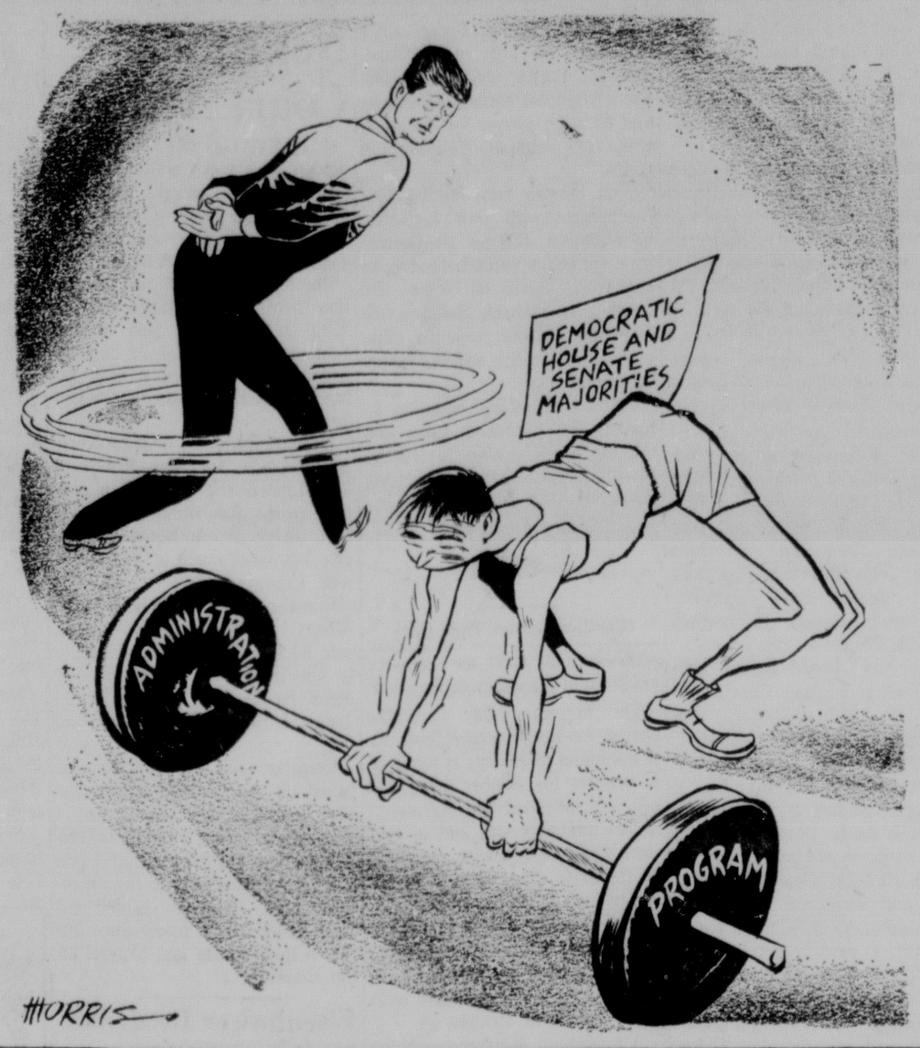
Worried about the Wisconsin primary, Mr. Kennedy asked Mr. Bowles to stump the state for him. Mr. Bowles balked. Mr. Kennedy did not like that at all. Still, he helped Mr. Bowles become chairman of the Democratic Platform Committee, and named him a foreign policy adviser. During the campaign Mr. Bowles probably thought he had at least half a chance of becoming secretary of state.

Instead Mr. Kennedy chose Dean Rusk and named Mr. Bowes under secretary. The personalities of the secretary and his deputy did not mesh.

RUMORS of trouble at State were not long in coming, and only a newspaper leak stayed the President's hand when he was about to remove Mr. Bowles in July, 1961. The heat died down. Mr. Kennedy then formally shifted Mr. Bowles to his underground post in November.

As a presidential adviser, Mr. Bowles' major task since then was a global trip early this spring.

A Prospect For His Health Program



U.S. Monopoly Or Free Enterprise?

By Raymond Moley

It is quite generally anticipated that by 1975 a considerable part of the nation's supply of electricity will be generated by nuclear fission.

Some predict, in fact, that a few years later most of the energy needed to generate electric power will be by that method, supplanting much of our present hydro and steam capacity.

For this reason, and also because of the federal government's huge investment in nuclear reactors, zealous advocates of a federal monopoly in electric power have been pressing for some years to accomplish their end by building new reactors or converting old ones.

A few years ago, a proposal was made to build several reactors for electrical production. This was rejected by Congress.

THEN LAST YEAR the Senate approved an administration plan to spend $95 million to add electric generating facilities to a new reactor at Hanford, Wash. This proposed plant would produce, it was said, 860,000 kilowatts, half the capacity of the Grand Coulee plant.

Opposition to this project immediately came from members of the House and also from the coal industry, the Mineworkers Union and investor-owned electric companies. The project was deleted by a House vote.

Later, an attempt to get the Senate version adopted in conference was frustrated by strong opposition.

Subsequently, a plan was devised to bypass Congress entirely. A group of public-power agencies in Washington, organized as the Washington Public Power Supply System, proposed to build the electrical production facilities itself and to finance it by revenue bonds.

Accordingly, an agreement was tentatively made with the Bonneville Power Administration to have that federal agency take the power produced by the project and market it through its Northwest grid.

That this interposition of the WPPSS was only a neat trick to assure the ultimate federal ownership of the electric power facilities is shown by one feature of the proposed contract.

This provides that the Bonneville agency could take over the WPPSS properties later if it chose by paying off the outstanding obligations of the WPPSS.

The congressional opposition to the 1961 scheme, notably Rep. James E. Van Zandt, R-Pa., who is a member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, vigorously voiced opposition.

Finally, since agreement for the new plan would have to be obtained from the Atomic Energy Commission, that body requested a ruling from the comptroller general of the United States.

This ruling of the comptroller general, under date of July 6, after an exhaustive study of the case, concluded that the legislative history of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 shows an intent by Congress that no electric energy generating facility should be built without congressional approval now; that the WPPSS project should follow congressional authorization and appropriation; and that since congress had refused to authorize the AEC to construct such facilities in 1961, it could not agree to the plan without congressional approval now.

This would seem to have ended this slick attempt by public power people to circumvent Congress.

However, now there comes Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who would provide that in the marketing of such power the investor-owned (private) companies should get 50 per cent of the power generated.

This is quite obviously an effort to remove the objections of those companies by cutting them in for some of the production. It is not likely to succeed.

But it is not the specific interests of these companies that is the main consideration.

The real issue is whether this immensely important source of electric power should be operated by a federal monopoly or by free enterprise. It should be clear to anyone that if the production and distribution of electric power is in the hands of the central government, this country is well on the way to socialism in all industrial life. Free enterprise would be virtually at its end.

It is most interesting to note that one of the first to recognize the danger of a government monopoly in the peaceful uses of nuclear energy was David E. Lilienthal himself, who was certainly no hard-bitten reactionary.

When he retired as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission he called for the removal of the heavy hand of government on the new form of energy and for putting it "back on the American track," where "the great prizes of satisfaction, prestige and profit have always spurred men on in every other new chapter of American industrial history."

Lewis L. Strauss held firmly to this Lilienthal principle during his years as head of the AEC. He cooperated in getting vast private investments in reactors to produce electricity, projects which are already either completed or under construction.

No doubt, this insistence upon free enterprise was largely the reason for the bitter opposition in the Senate which denied confirmation of Strauss' nomination to be secretary of commerce.

Is Kennedy Too Late?

By James Marlow

Appeal To People Seen As Tardy

WASHINGTON

President Kennedy is about to do what he could have done before but didn't, although, if he had, he might have less need for doing it now. He's going to the people for support.

In these past 18 months, Congress stuck with him on defense and the usual problems outside the country, like foreign aid and trade.

But it acted like kids loose in a department store at night with bricks and scissors when it came to some of his major domestic programs, like medical care for the elderly and aid to education.

Kennedy could have appealed directly to public opinion to pressure Congress on these programs. He did little direct appealing. And now it's too late for this year.

Quietly, without much evidence of distress, he let Congress refrigerate aid to education. He made only one broadcast for medical care and that was off the cuff although he had time for a thorough, prepared talk.

While Presidents Roosevelt and Truman went over the heads of Congress to the people, Kennedy used the tactics Jefferson, Jackson and McKinley had to use in the days before radio and television.

He and his aides put pressure on Congress. Because whatever was done was done behind the scenes, just how much fighting he did will always be open to question.

He certainly did not fight openly with Congress.

He seems to have operated under the spell of President Eisenhower's let's get along with everybody policy.

Kennedy has a Democratic-run Congress where the Republicans and a bundle of his own Democrats are far from cooperative, at least on his domestic program. And the leaders, Democrats and Republicans alike, are not in the same league with Rayburn and Johnson.

In the congressional election campaigns after Congress winds up, Kennedy is expected to pitch for his programs like medical care. And although his Democrats enormously outnumber Republicans, he will ask for even more Democrats in order to get his programs through next year.

If he had pitched for his individual programs publicly during the past 18 months he would have been in the enviable political position of being able to focus attention on one at a time without distractions.

He will not have the luxury of that in the election campaigns since, even when he talks about his unfulfilled programs, voters' attention will be distracted and diffused by other issues.

In addition, in a nonpresidential year like this, the minority party in Congress—Republicans, in this case—usually picks up seats.

If the pattern is broken and Democrats pick up seats it will still do Kennedy not much good if they turn out to be conservative Democrats.

It's the conservative Democrats—by teaming up with Republicans against Kennedy programs—who have given the President the miseries this year.

Russian Renewal

Reds Prepare For More Blasts

PASADENA, CALIF.

When the nuclear shooting ends in the Pacific Ocean and in Nevada and all the boys from the Department of Defense and the Atomic Energy Commission have convinced themselves they have the biggest, best bangs for the buck, the explosions probably will start again in the Arctic Circle.

From the way Soviet Premier Khrushchev has been talking, he either wants to catch up to the United States or make the world believe he has caught up.

IN ANY CASE, it seems that the United States will not start a new round of tests to counter the Russians.

We know how close the decision to test nuclear weapons was in top government levels. Those who were against the resumption, after the Russians broke the hiatus, now have powerful scientific-political arguments on their side.

They can point to the growing worldwide repugnance to dirtying up the atmosphere with radioactive debris. They can present increasing evidence that at very low levels the radioactivity that gets into bones, thyroid glands and chromosomes yields cancer, deformities and deaths of yet unborn children.

THEY CAN SAY, as Dr. Hans Bethe, the "mother" of the hydrogen bomb, has said, that even before the current round of shots the U.S. had more than enough bombs, and bombs of good quality. Now it should certainly be true.

Finally, they add, both Russia and the United States have enough bombs, and the means to deliver them, to level civilization to any degree, leaving tattered, burnt steel skeletons of societies that once were. So why test more?

Of course, the people in and out of government who are in favor of continued testing, or continued refinement of our atomic arsenal, say they have designs right now on the drawing boards for still better weapons, that if we do not test them the Russians will, that if we do not test certain antimissile missile system, the Russians will and leave us helpless, etc., etc., etc.

THERE IS a strong feeling that at the end of the Russians' second-round tests — if it comes —the world may be politically and scientifically ready for a treaty to ban nuclear testing in the air, underground and under water.

From the scientific point of view, the techniques of detection of such blasts have developed to where it is possible for seismic stations to pick up weak underground disturbances thousands of miles away.

An array of seismic stations working in unison behaves like a radio antenna. Such a system picks up weak earthquake waves out of the random earth movements. In such an array, the earthquake meters are placed about a mile apart in a line.

Under the old methods, if you increased the number of seismic stations, for example, from three to nine, you only doubled the sensitivity of the system. With the array technique, you increase the sensitivity threefold. So it is possible to put a very few of these array stations within any country and know where and the number of ground disturbances.

HOWEVER, the scientists still have the problem of distinguishing earthquakes from underground blasts. One or two experts believe they can distinguish them from the type of wave produced by an explosion — by what they call the "lonesome" waves. These waves show one characteristic wiggle on their seismograph and none other when they come from an explosio they say.

Most of the seismologists in the field do not believe this can be done, since they can show records of thousands of natural earthquakes which, in their instruments, produced the "lonesome" waves.

So there must be some way of checking up on suspicious events. That way is on-the-spot inspection by experts.

IF THE RUSSIANS were to agree to 10, 20 or even 25 such inspections a year, then it would be enough to deter them from cheating with muffled underground explosions, since the chances of getting caught would be quite high.

Under such circumstances they would be able to set off only small weapons — say 10 kilotons' equivalent of TNT — underground in deep caverns that cost a great deal to dig. And with only small weapons tests, apparently little can be learned in weapons technology, since the Russians in their series set off mostly explosions of several hundred thousand kilotns of TNT and greater. Further, digging underground slows up weapons development to pre-Industrial Revolution pace, if such an analogy is possible.

Most scientists do not look upon a weapons-testing ban treaty as the solution to the nuclear arms race, since they know that the arsenals are full. Rather they see in it, if it can be achieved, a sort of test-tube experiment in disarmament or arms control.

If the technical problems and the problems of inspection can be solved with a nuclear-test treaty, then the more difficult scientific problems of inspecting and detecting rocket launch pads, hidden weapons arsenals and nuclear bomb material manufacturing centers may be solveable.

In any case, a test-ban treaty would be a good start.

The original salary of the president of the U. S. was $25,000. During Grant's second term, it was increased to $50,000 and in 1907 traveling expenses of $25,000 were added. Taft was the first president to receive $75,000 a year salary and $25,000 traveling expenses. Truman was the first to receive $100,000 a year in salary, under the law of 1949.

Keep To The Left

By Truman Twill

The car we used in Britain was an Austin Cambridge, a easy-riding model designed to carry back-seat passengers. I mention this because not all sedan compacts are designed with this in mind.

It had a large luggage compartment, a rack under the dash for keeping maps, food, candy and other necessities of travel and would run indefinitely on a tank of gas. Studying it under various driving conditions in Britain I understood for the first time why their cars are shorter than ours.

Like Abraham Lincoln's legs, which he said were long enough to reach the ground, British cars are long enough to do what they're supposed to do. One of the chief things they're supposed to do is get around some of the world's tightest corners.

Length and width are not only superfluous; they are out of the question. Even poshy cars are short and make no mistake about British posh. Their Rolls Royces, Bentleys, Jaguars and Rovers are as nice as cars can be built. But that's the other side of the tracks.

Ordinary Britons routinely use motor bikes and bicycles, sometimes with power attachments. Scooters are popular. Sidecars are common, as are three-wheeled cars made by Fiat and Messerschmitt. In general, automobiles are small, but it works out fine.

In a court that has many narrow streets, tight turns and gasoline that sells for more than 70 cents a gallon, people own what they can afford. Bearing in mind that an imperial gallon contains five quarts and British engines get high mileage, a working stiff there pays about the same share of income for transportation as a working stiff here.

A visitor notes that all transportation is functional—double-deck buses for crowded cities; cabs designed to be ridden in, with extra head room, separate driver compartment and unenclosed luggage space next to it; bicycles for errands such as shopping (even old women ride them) and many makes of cab-over-engine vans that were the predecessors of the efficient vans now popular here. We saw these being used for outings, with seats inside for up to 10 passengers.

The people are big for picnicking. Many carry folding chairs and a folding table in their cars. They pull into a "lay-by" and have all the comforts of home in a jiffy. There are no roadside eating stands.

Motor-bikers are required by law to wear crash helmets. They are required by the weather to wear goggles, wind masks and wind-and-weather-proof clothing. They look like men from Mars until they unmask. They nearly always ride double and most of the time it's a he-she combination. Even babies go along in slings on their mother's enclosed sidecars.

Ony one large vehicle is more noticeable than the universal double-deck buses that everybody sees in London but which are in all other cities too, sometimes painted colors besides the famous London red. Luxury motor coaches are everywhere, filled with tourists.

The tourists we saw were not Americans. On our 1,200-mile trip we saw scarcely any Americans because we were off the beaten paths most of the time. These coaches with their invariable bouquets of flowers and observation roofs were filled with Britons seeing their own country. Many were middle-aged women whose clothes and manners marked them as middle middle-class housewives.

Highway courtesy is conspicuous. Safe driving is conspicuous. After a few days you never think about keeping left. That is, you don't think about it in the back seat. I had thought at times about driving, then I'd be fine unless I got into a jam, then my lifelong conditioned reflex would prompt me to swing in the wrong direction.

It was more sensible to let our son do the driving. He never had driven a car in Britain before but he had been bicycling there for upward of a year and had the necessary reflexes. Besides, he is a better driver than his old man anyway, except this must never come to his attention and never will unless someone tattles.

Paging Mr. Bowles

By David Wise

Whatever happened to Chester Bowles?

In the softness of a summer night along the Potomac, his name is heard no more amid the garden party chatter about Teddy, Sarge, Arthur, the Peace Corps, and the other fashionable topics. He is the forgotten man of the New Frontier.

Only eight months ago, his name was headline news. Only two years ago, it was a campaign issue. Standing in the great square at Nashville, Tenn., in October, 1960, Richard M. Nixon was moved to declare:

"I can say here standing on ground which has been hallowed by Andrew Jackson that he would turn over in his grave if he thought that this party of Schlesinger, of Bowles and Galbraith was the Democratic party of which he was proud to be a member."

Well, in 1962, John Kenneth Galbraith, United States ambassador to India, and Arthur M. Schlesinger, special assistant to the President, are still dodging the brickbats.

Mr. Galbraith has been criticized for traveling around so much. And Mr. Schlesinger has had to explain why he's moonlighting movie reviews and losing his balance around swimming pools.

But not Mr. Bowles. He doesn't have to defend himself any more because nobody is attacking him. And nobody is attacking him because they can't see him.

THE FACT is that Chester Bowles is still very much on the New Frontier, but he has gone underground. He is taking trips as the President's special representative and adviser on Africa, Asia and Latin America. He is writing memos, which are acted upon. And he gets in to see the President—with more frequency than when he was under secretary of state.

In a quiet way, he is still an active figure in the administration, although no longer a central one and no longer in the chain of command between President Kennedy and the State Department.

Almost nobody noticed last month when Mr. Bowles called on the President at the White House to deliver a memo on Far Eastern policy, including the then boiling situation in the Formosa Straits. Equally unpublicized was another memo from Mr. Bowles to the President on the organization of the State Department and Foreign Service. The President reportedly liked it.

And so, a kind of calm has come to the Kennedy-Bowles relationship. The storm that preceded it really began shortly after Mr. Bowles, a boy wonder of Madison Avenue, wartime OPA Administrator, governor of Connecticut, and ambassador to India, joined the Kennedy Bandwagon early in 1960.

Worried about the Wisconsin primary, Mr. Kennedy asked Mr. Bowles to stump the state for him. Mr. Bowles balked. Mr. Kennedy did not like that at all. Still, he helped Mr. Bowles become chairman of the Democratic Platform Committee, and named him a foreign policy adviser. During the campaign Mr. Bowles probably thought he had at least half a chance of becoming secretary of state.

Instead Mr. Kennedy chose Dean Rusk and named Mr. Bowes under secretary. The personalities of the secretary and his deputy did not mesh.

RUMORS of trouble at State were not long in coming, and only a newspaper leak stayed the President's hand when he was about to remove Mr. Bowles in July, 1961. The heat died down. Mr. Kennedy then formally shifted Mr. Bowles to his underground post in November.

As a presidential adviser, Mr. Bowles' major task since then was a global trip early this spring.

A Prospect For His Health Program

U.S. Monopoly Or Free Enterprise?

By Raymond Moley

It is quite generally anticipated that by 1975 a considerable part of the nation's supply of electricity will be generated by nuclear fission.

Some predict, in fact, that a few years later most of the energy needed to generate electric power will be by that method, supplanting much of our present hydro and steam capacity.

For this reason, and also because of the federal government's huge investment in nuclear reactors, zealous advocates of a federal monopoly in electric power have been pressing for some years to accomplish their end by building new reactors or converting old ones.

A few years ago, a proposal was made to build several reactors for electrical production. This was rejected by Congress.

THEN LAST YEAR the Senate approved an administration plan to spend $95 million to add electric generating facilities to a new reactor at Hanford, Wash. This proposed plant would produce, it was said, 860,000 kilowatts, half the capacity of the Grand Coulee plant.

Opposition to this project immediately came from members of the House and also from the coal industry, the Mineworkers Union and investor-owned electric companies. The project was deleted by a House vote.

Later, an attempt to get the Senate version adopted in conference was frustrated by strong opposition.

Subsequently, a plan was devised to bypass Congress entirely. A group of public-power agencies in Washington, organized as the Washington Public Power Supply System, proposed to build the electrical production facilities itself and to finance it by revenue bonds.

Accordingly, an agreement was tentatively made with the Bonneville Power Administration to have that federal agency take the power produced by the project and market it through its Northwest grid.

That this interposition of the WPPSS was only a neat trick to assure the ultimate federal ownership of the electric power facilities is shown by one feature of the proposed contract.

This provides that the Bonneville agency could take over the WPPSS properties later if it chose by paying off the outstanding obligations of the WPPSS.

The congressional opposition to the 1961 scheme, notably Rep. James E. Van Zandt, R-Pa., who is a member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, vigorously voiced opposition.

Finally, since agreement for the new plan would have to be obtained from the Atomic Energy Commission, that body requested a ruling from the comptroller general of the United States.

This ruling of the comptroller general, under date of July 6, after an exhaustive study of the case, concluded that the legislative history of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 shows an intent by Congress that no electric energy generating facility should be built without congressional approval now; that the WPPSS project should follow congressional authorization and appropriation; and that since congress had refused to authorize the AEC to construct such facilities in 1961, it could not agree to the plan without congressional approval now.

This would seem to have ended this slick attempt by public power people to circumvent Congress.

However, now there comes Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who would provide that in the marketing of such power the investor-owned (private) companies should get 50 per cent of the power generated.

This is quite obviously an effort to remove the objections of those companies by cutting them in for some of the production. It is not likely to succeed.

But it is not the specific interests of these companies that is the main consideration.

The real issue is whether this immensely important source of electric power should be operated by a federal monopoly or by free enterprise. It should be clear to anyone that if the production and distribution of electric power is in the hands of the central government, this country is well on the way to socialism in all industrial life. Free enterprise would be virtually at its end.

It is most interesting to note that one of the first to recognize the danger of a government monopoly in the peaceful uses of nuclear energy was David E. Lilienthal himself, who was certainly no hard-bitten reactionary.

When he retired as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission he called for the removal of the heavy hand of government on the new form of energy and for putting it "back on the American track," where "the great prizes of satisfaction, prestige and profit have always spurred men on in every other new chapter of American industrial history."

Lewis L. Strauss held firmly to this Lilienthal principle during his years as head of the AEC. He cooperated in getting vast private investments in reactors to produce electricity, projects which are already either completed or under construction.

No doubt, this insistence upon free enterprise was largely the reason for the bitter opposition in the Senate which denied confirmation of Strauss' nomination to be secretary of commerce.

Is Kennedy Too Late?

By James Marlow

Appeal To People Seen As Tardy

WASHINGTON

President Kennedy is about to do what he could have done before but didn't, although, if he had, he might have less need for doing it now. He's going to the people for support.

In these past 18 months, Congress stuck with him on defense and the usual problems outside the country, like foreign aid and trade.

But it acted like kids loose in a department store at night with bricks and scissors when it came to some of his major domestic programs, like medical care for the elderly and aid to education.

Kennedy could have appealed directly to public opinion to pressure Congress on these programs. He did little direct appealing. And now it's too late for this year.

Quietly, without much evidence of distress, he let Congress refrigerate aid to education. He made only one broadcast for medical care and that was off the cuff although he had time for a thorough, prepared talk.

While Presidents Roosevelt and Truman went over the heads of Congress to the people, Kennedy used the tactics Jefferson, Jackson and McKinley had to use in the days before radio and television.

He and his aides put pressure on Congress. Because whatever was done was done behind the scenes, just how much fighting he did will always be open to question.

He certainly did not fight openly with Congress.

He seems to have operated under the spell of President Eisenhower's let's get along with everybody policy.

Kennedy has a Democratic-run Congress where the Republicans and a bundle of his own Democrats are far from cooperative, at least on his domestic program. And the leaders, Democrats and Republicans alike, are not in the same league with Rayburn and Johnson.

In the congressional election campaigns after Congress winds up, Kennedy is expected to pitch for his programs like medical care. And although his Democrats enormously outnumber Republicans, he will ask for even more Democrats in order to get his programs through next year.

If he had pitched for his individual programs publicly during the past 18 months he would have been in the enviable political position of being able to focus attention on one at a time without distractions.

He will not have the luxury of that in the election campaigns since, even when he talks about his unfulfilled programs, voters' attention will be distracted and diffused by other issues.

In addition, in a nonpresidential year like this, the minority party in Congress—Republicans, in this case—usually picks up seats.

If the pattern is broken and Democrats pick up seats it will still do Kennedy not much good if they turn out to be conservative Democrats.

It's the conservative Democrats—by teaming up with Republicans against Kennedy programs—who have given the President the miseries this year.

Russian Renewal

PASADENA, CALIF.

When the nuclear shooting ends in the Pacific Ocean and in Nevada and all the boys from the Department of Defense and the Atomic Energy Commission have convinced themselves they have the biggest, best bangs for the buck, the explosions probably will start again in the Arctic Circle.

From the way Soviet Premier Khrushchev has been talking, he either wants to catch up to the United States or make the world believe he has caught up.

IN ANY CASE, it seems that the United States will not start a new round of tests to counter the Russians.

We know how close the decision to test nuclear weapons was in top government levels. Those who were against the resumption, after the Russians broke the hiatus, now have powerful scientific-political arguments on their side.

They can point to the growing worldwide repugnance to dirtying up the atmosphere with radioactive debris. They can present increasing evidence that at very low levels the radioactivity that gets into bones, thyroid glands and chromosomes yields cancer, deformities and deaths of yet unborn children.

THEY CAN SAY, as Dr. Hans Bethe, the "mother" of the hydrogen bomb, has said, that even before the current round of shots the U.S. had more than enough bombs, and bombs of good quality. Now it should certainly be true.

Finally, they add, both Russia and the United States have enough bombs, and the means to deliver them, to level civilization to any degree, leaving tattered, burnt steel skeletons of societies that once were. So why test more?

Of course, the people in and out of government who are in favor of continued testing, or continued refinement of our atomic arsenal, say they have designs right now on the drawing boards for still better weapons, that if we do not test them the Russians will, that if we do not test certain antimissile missile system, the Russians will and leave us helpless, etc., etc., etc.

THERE IS a strong feeling that at the end of the Russians' second-round tests — if it comes —the world may be politically and scientifically ready for a treaty to ban nuclear testing in the air, underground and under water.

From the scientific point of view, the techniques of detection of such blasts have developed to where it is possible for seismic stations to pick up weak underground disturbances thousands of miles away.

An array of seismic stations working in unison behaves like a radio antenna. Such a system picks up weak earthquake waves out of the random earth movements. In such an array, the earthquake meters are placed about a mile apart in a line.

Under the old methods, if you increased the number of seismic stations, for example, from three to nine, you only doubled the sensitivity of the system. With the array technique, you increase the sensitivity threefold. So it is possible to put a very few of these array stations within any country and know where and the number of ground disturbances.

HOWEVER, the scientists still have the problem of distinguishing earthquakes from underground blasts. One or two experts believe they can distinguish them from the type of wave produced by an explosion — by what they call the "lonesome" waves. These waves show one characteristic wiggle on their seismograph and none other when they come from an explosio they say.

Most of the seismologists in the field do not believe this can be done, since they can show records of thousands of natural earthquakes which, in their instruments, produced the "lonesome" waves.

So there must be some way of checking up on suspicious events. That way is on-the-spot inspection by experts.

IF THE RUSSIANS were to agree to 10, 20 or even 25 such inspections a year, then it would be enough to deter them from cheating with muffled underground explosions, since the chances of getting caught would be quite high.

Under such circumstances they would be able to set off only small weapons — say 10 kilotons' equivalent of TNT — underground in deep caverns that cost a great deal to dig. And with only small weapons tests, apparently little can be learned in weapons technology, since the Russians in their series set off mostly explosions of several hundred thousand kilotns of TNT and greater. Further, digging underground slows up weapons development to pre-Industrial Revolution pace, if such an analogy is possible.

Most scientists do not look upon a weapons-testing ban treaty as the solution to the nuclear arms race, since they know that the arsenals are full. Rather they see in it, if it can be achieved, a sort of test-tube experiment in disarmament or arms control.

If the technical problems and the problems of inspection can be solved with a nuclear-test treaty, then the more difficult scientific problems of inspecting and detecting rocket launch pads, hidden weapons arsenals and nuclear bomb material manufacturing centers may be solveable.

In any case, a test-ban treaty would be a good start.

The original salary of the president of the U. S. was $25,000. During Grant's second term, it was increased to $50,000 and in 1907 traveling expenses of $25,000 were added. Taft was the first president to receive $75,000 a year salary and $25,000 traveling expenses. Truman was the first to receive $100,000 a year in salary, under the law of 1949.

Farm Agent Issues Hints On Selecting Sweet Corn

Hints to shoppers for selection of good quality sweet corn were issued today by Richard Skinner, market information specialist with the Agricultural Extension Service in Canfield.

Sweet corn now is available in area markets, Skinner pointed out. The supply of locally-grown corn will increase gradually and should reach its peak in late July and early August, he pointed out. Prices should be favorable to consumers, as corn will be available from several nearby states, he added.

For good quality, buy corn that is displayed in a cool place. In a retail store it should be on ice or under refrigeration. If bought at a roadside stand, make sure it is fresh and is displayed out of the sun.

Kernels should be well filled, bright, plump, milky and firm enough to give slight resistance to pressure. They should also be free from worms or insect damage. If the husks are on, they should be fresh and green.

Proper maturity is also important. Kernels of immature sweet corn are watery and lack sweetness and flavor. The maximum sugar content is reached just before the kernels attain their full size. As the corn becomes more mature, the starch content increases and the kernel becomes tough. To maintain good quality, buy only the amount you can use within a short time, get it to your home as soon as possible and use it as soon as practical. The sooner it is used, the sweeter it will be.

Corn to be stored should be wrapped in a damp towel, stored in the refrigerator in a covered container to prevent it from drying out.

Corn-on-the cob steamed or boiled five or six minutes in water is probably the favorite of all ways to prepare this taste-tempting vegetable.

Husked corn wrapped in aluminum foil or the unhusked corn roasted in the embers of an outdoor fire are picnic favorites. To add variety in the use of corn in the daily emnus, include it in casseroles, custards, chowders, souffles and escalloped dishes.

Families which have corn in their gardens or who can purchase it from nearby farms or stores may want to can, freeze, dry or pickle corn at the height of the season. That's the time when you usually get the best corn at the lowest price. Select corn with well - formed kernels with thin, sweet milk to freeze.

One bushel or five dozen ears of corn will yield about 17 pints of the frozen or canned product. Specific home preservation methods can be found in many reliable cookbooks or you may contact your local extension office.

Utility Slates New Pipeline

Work will begin soon on a $40,100 Ohio Valley Gas Co. pipeline construction project to make way for the relocation of Routes 30 and 170 north of East Liverpool, second stage of the area freeway construction, the utility announced today.

H. R. Sneddon, East Liverpool division manager for Ohio Valley, said almost a mile of new pipeline — four and six inches in diameter — will be laid to move sections of existing gas lines out of the highway right-of-way.

One new line will extend east along Calvin St. to the eastern limit of the new highway, then south paralleling the highway right-of-way to existing Route 30.

A second new line will parallel the southern right-of-way limit of Route 170 east to an existing line at the highway construction limits, Sneddon said.

Wirt & Starn Inc., of Wooster will build the new pipelines. Work is expected to be completed before Dec. 1, Sneddon said.

Work on the second stage of the freeway may get under way late this fall or early in 1963. The first stage of the four-lane road is scheduled to be completed in a few months. It extends from the city limits in California Hollow to W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. The second stage will link up with the first section at the city limits.

20 Workers Are Hurt In Missile Silo Blast

RILLITO, Ariz. (AP)—An explosion in a Titan missile silo near this small southeastern Arizona community set off a fire and injured 20 men Sunday night authorities said.

Five of the workers, Gene Lassetier, 34; Kennety Marberry, 41; Frank Manville, 61; Robert Benton, 56, and Raymond Lanham, 40, all of Tucson, were hospitalized for smoke inhalation.

The other workmen were treated and released.

Titan officials said the explosion occurred in a switch box located on the third level, 50 feet underground.

Officials said the trouble apparently started when a switch gear started tossing out a series of electrical flashes. A fire burned briefly, but was quickly extinguished, they said.

The officials estimated damage at $2,000.

4 In Columbiana Car Hurt Near Darlington

A Columbiana area motorist and three passengers in his car were treated at a Salem hospital after his car slid into another auto while rounding a curve on Route 551 near Darlington Saturday about 4:15 p. m.

The Chippewa Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police said Richard Knowles, 34, of Columbiana R. D. 2, driver of one of the cars, was treated for face and forehead lacerations. Three passengers, Blanche Knowles, 6, was treated for minor bruises, George Feezle, 40, suffered face lacerations, and Trudy Mae Feezle, 13, had minor bruises.

Police said Knowles' car slid on the wet pavement and hit a car driven by Robert Stitt, 39, of Darlington R. D. 2.

Balloon Technique Reported In Finding Stomach Cancer

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Development of a new "radiant balloon" technique for diagnosing stomach cancer was reported today by an American surgeon as the world's largest gathering of cancer fighters in history opened technical sessions.

Dr. Norman B. Ackerman of the University of Minnesota Medical School described the diagnosis technique to the eighth International Cancer Congress, meeting at Moscow University.

A patient suspected of having stomach cancer is first given a small dose of radioactive phosphorus. This particular isotope is known to be absorbed more by cancer tissue than by normal tissue.

Then a thin-walled rubber balloon, coated with a latex-base emulsion sensitive to light and to other forms of radiation, is passed into the patient's stomach and inflated to fill the stomach cavity.

Rays from the radioactive phosphorus strike the balloon and make streaks on the emulsion lining. The balloon is deflated and withdrawn from the patient's stomach, and the pattern of rays is studied by special techniques. A particularly large concentration of streaks in a certain part could mean stomach cancer is present.

Dr. Ackerman said heretofore Geiger counters have been used to follow the action of radioactive phosphorus in the stomach. The diagnosis of cancer depended on whether an unusually large number of signals came from a certain part of the stomach.

He said geiger counters, which must be held outside the body, present difficulties in tracing the phosphorus in relatively inaccessible areas.

He said the new balloon technique has now been used on some 400 patients with a "high degree of reliability."

Farm Agent Issues Hints On Selecting Sweet Corn

Hints to shoppers for selection of good quality sweet corn were issued today by Richard Skinner, market information specialist with the Agricultural Extension Service in Canfield.

Sweet corn now is available in area markets, Skinner pointed out. The supply of locally-grown corn will increase gradually and should reach its peak in late July and early August, he pointed out. Prices should be favorable to consumers, as corn will be available from several nearby states, he added.

For good quality, buy corn that is displayed in a cool place. In a retail store it should be on ice or under refrigeration. If bought at a roadside stand, make sure it is fresh and is displayed out of the sun.

Kernels should be well filled, bright, plump, milky and firm enough to give slight resistance to pressure. They should also be free from worms or insect damage. If the husks are on, they should be fresh and green.

Proper maturity is also important. Kernels of immature sweet corn are watery and lack sweetness and flavor. The maximum sugar content is reached just before the kernels attain their full size. As the corn becomes more mature, the starch content increases and the kernel becomes tough. To maintain good quality, buy only the amount you can use within a short time, get it to your home as soon as possible and use it as soon as practical. The sooner it is used, the sweeter it will be.

Corn to be stored should be wrapped in a damp towel, stored in the refrigerator in a covered container to prevent it from drying out.

Corn-on-the cob steamed or boiled five or six minutes in water is probably the favorite of all ways to prepare this taste-tempting vegetable.

Husked corn wrapped in aluminum foil or the unhusked corn roasted in the embers of an outdoor fire are picnic favorites. To add variety in the use of corn in the daily emnus, include it in casseroles, custards, chowders, souffles and escalloped dishes.

Families which have corn in their gardens or who can purchase it from nearby farms or stores may want to can, freeze, dry or pickle corn at the height of the season. That's the time when you usually get the best corn at the lowest price. Select corn with well - formed kernels with thin, sweet milk to freeze.

One bushel or five dozen ears of corn will yield about 17 pints of the frozen or canned product. Specific home preservation methods can be found in many reliable cookbooks or you may contact your local extension office.

Utility Slates New Pipeline

Work will begin soon on a $40,100 Ohio Valley Gas Co. pipeline construction project to make way for the relocation of Routes 30 and 170 north of East Liverpool, second stage of the area freeway construction, the utility announced today.

H. R. Sneddon, East Liverpool division manager for Ohio Valley, said almost a mile of new pipeline — four and six inches in diameter — will be laid to move sections of existing gas lines out of the highway right-of-way.

One new line will extend east along Calvin St. to the eastern limit of the new highway, then south paralleling the highway right-of-way to existing Route 30.

A second new line will parallel the southern right-of-way limit of Route 170 east to an existing line at the highway construction limits, Sneddon said.

Wirt & Starn Inc., of Wooster will build the new pipelines. Work is expected to be completed before Dec. 1, Sneddon said.

Work on the second stage of the freeway may get under way late this fall or early in 1963. The first stage of the four-lane road is scheduled to be completed in a few months. It extends from the city limits in California Hollow to W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. The second stage will link up with the first section at the city limits.

20 Workers Are Hurt In Missile Silo Blast

RILLITO, Ariz. (AP)—An explosion in a Titan missile silo near this small southeastern Arizona community set off a fire and injured 20 men Sunday night authorities said.

Five of the workers, Gene Lassetier, 34; Kennety Marberry, 41; Frank Manville, 61; Robert Benton, 56, and Raymond Lanham, 40, all of Tucson, were hospitalized for smoke inhalation.

The other workmen were treated and released.

Titan officials said the explosion occurred in a switch box located on the third level, 50 feet underground.

Officials said the trouble apparently started when a switch gear started tossing out a series of electrical flashes. A fire burned briefly, but was quickly extinguished, they said.

The officials estimated damage at $2,000.

Balloon Technique Reported In Finding Stomach Cancer

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Development of a new "radiant balloon" technique for diagnosing stomach cancer was reported today by an American surgeon as the world's largest gathering of cancer fighters in history opened technical sessions.

Dr. Norman B. Ackerman of the University of Minnesota Medical School described the diagnosis technique to the eighth International Cancer Congress, meeting at Moscow University.

A patient suspected of having stomach cancer is first given a small dose of radioactive phosphorus. This particular isotope is known to be absorbed more by cancer tissue than by normal tissue.

Then a thin-walled rubber balloon, coated with a latex-base emulsion sensitive to light and to other forms of radiation, is passed into the patient's stomach and inflated to fill the stomach cavity.

Rays from the radioactive phosphorus strike the balloon and make streaks on the emulsion lining. The balloon is deflated and withdrawn from the patient's stomach, and the pattern of rays is studied by special techniques. A particularly large concentration of streaks in a certain part could mean stomach cancer is present.

Dr. Ackerman said heretofore Geiger counters have been used to follow the action of radioactive phosphorus in the stomach. The diagnosis of cancer depended on whether an unusually large number of signals came from a certain part of the stomach.

He said geiger counters, which must be held outside the body, present difficulties in tracing the phosphorus in relatively inaccessible areas.

He said the new balloon technique has now been used on some 400 patients with a "high degree of reliability."

West Virginia Awaits Law

Thousands May Be Called In Public Works Program

CHARLESTON (AP) — Thousands of West Virginia men may be recalled to their jobs on public works projects throughout the state within the next week.

Gov. Barron said his administration is ready to make the recall order as soon as President Kennedy signs into law new welfare legislation enacted by Congress last week.

Sen. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) estimates that under the legislation West Virginia can qualify for $19 million in new federal matching welfare funds. About $16 million of this, Randolph said, would be for running the program of aid to dependent children of unemployed parents (ADCU) through this fiscal year.

About 12,500 men were employed on public works projects in the state under the ADCU program until it expired June 30. Then they were laid off. The new welfare legislation would continue it for five years.

ADCU is financed 70 per cent by the federal government and 30 per cent by the state.

Randolph said the state would gain new welfare funds in this way:

Aid to the aged, blind and disabled on public assistance will be increased $4 per person, and West Virginia will receive an incease of $1,444,000.

Under the regular aid to dependent children program, there is additional matching for a second parent, and this will increase West Virginia's share by $879,000.

Child welfare authorizations for day-care services have been increased, giving West Virginia $64,885 this year and $129,532 for the next fiscal year.

Salvation Army Reports $26,534 In Building Fund

Maj. William F. Hathorn today announced that the Salvation Army building fund campaign has reached a total of $26,534.

The figure was reached through the combined efforts of many people "but particular thanks go to the employes of Globe Brick Co. who made a sizable cash and pledge contribution last week," he said.

The total now stands at 23 per cent of the goal needed to enable the unit to proceed with its plans to purchase the former American Legion Post 4 home on Walnut St.

Several large divisions still have many pledge cards outstanding, Maj. Hathorn said. He expressed confidence that when these are turned in to headquarters the total will climb rapidly.

He urged all workers to turn in any cards or money that they may have.

Plane Resumes Flight To Europe After Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixteen passengers of the Royal Dutch Airline on their way to Amsterdam resume their journey today. It was interrupted Sunday night when a fire in an engine forced their plane to return to Idlewild Airport.

Caterpillar Threat Wiped Out For Year

CHARLESTON (AP) — Now we all can relax. The tent caterpillar is all but wiped out for the year in West Virginia.

The good news comes from Director F. Waldo Craig of the State Agriculture Department's Pest Control Division, who said of the caterpillars: "Mother Nature took care of them."

This pest, quite evident around the state from about 1954 through 1960 and 1961, has lost out to its natural enemies, Craig observed.

Although caterpillars feed on tree leaves, they have done little real damage except to the human nerves.

For example, take the Charleston woman who began to panic when one day she found caterpillars by the scores clustered in the gutters of her home.

Like other native insect pests, the caerpillar follows a generally consistent cycle. Craig said the population was high in 1940 - 49, was of little consequence in 1950 53, and then began the latest upswing in 1954.

But the threat again is over, probably for several years.

Plane Resumes Flight To Europe After Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixteen passengers of the Royal Dutch Airline on their way to Amsterdam resume their journey today. It was interrupted Sunday night when a fire in an engine forced their plane to return to Idlewild Airport.

The pilot turned back after reporting that the fire posed no imminent danger. It was quickly extinguished while the propellor-driver craft was still aloft.

Caterpillar Threat Wiped Out For Year

CHARLESTON (AP) — Now we all can relax. The tent caterpillar is all but wiped out for the year in West Virginia.

The good news comes from Director F. Waldo Craig of the State Agriculture Department's Pest Control Division, who said of the caterpillars: "Mother Nature took care of them."

This pest, quite evident around the state from about 1954 through 1960 and 1961, has lost out to its natural enemies, Craig observed.

Although caterpillars feed on tree leaves, they have done little real damage except to the human nerves.

For example, take the Charleston woman who began to panic when one day she found caterpillars by the scores clustered in the gutters of her home.

Like other native insect pests, the caerpillar follows a generally consistent cycle. Craig said the population was high in 1940 - 49, was of little consequence in 1950 53, and then began the latest upswing in 1954.

But the threat again is over, probably for several years.

Space Needle Stopped By Girl's Foot Mishap

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — An 8-year-old Connecticut girl stopped the revolving Space Needle restaurant Sunday.

World Fair officials said Mary Plunkett of Stamford, Conn., brought the restaurant to a halt when she caught her shoe between a partition and the turntable.

Firemen freed the child, who was taken to a hospital for precautionary x-rays.

The restaurant section of the 600-foot space needle makes one revolution every hour, allowing diners a sweeping view of the city.

REFUGEES: THEIR FLIGHT GOES ON AND ON

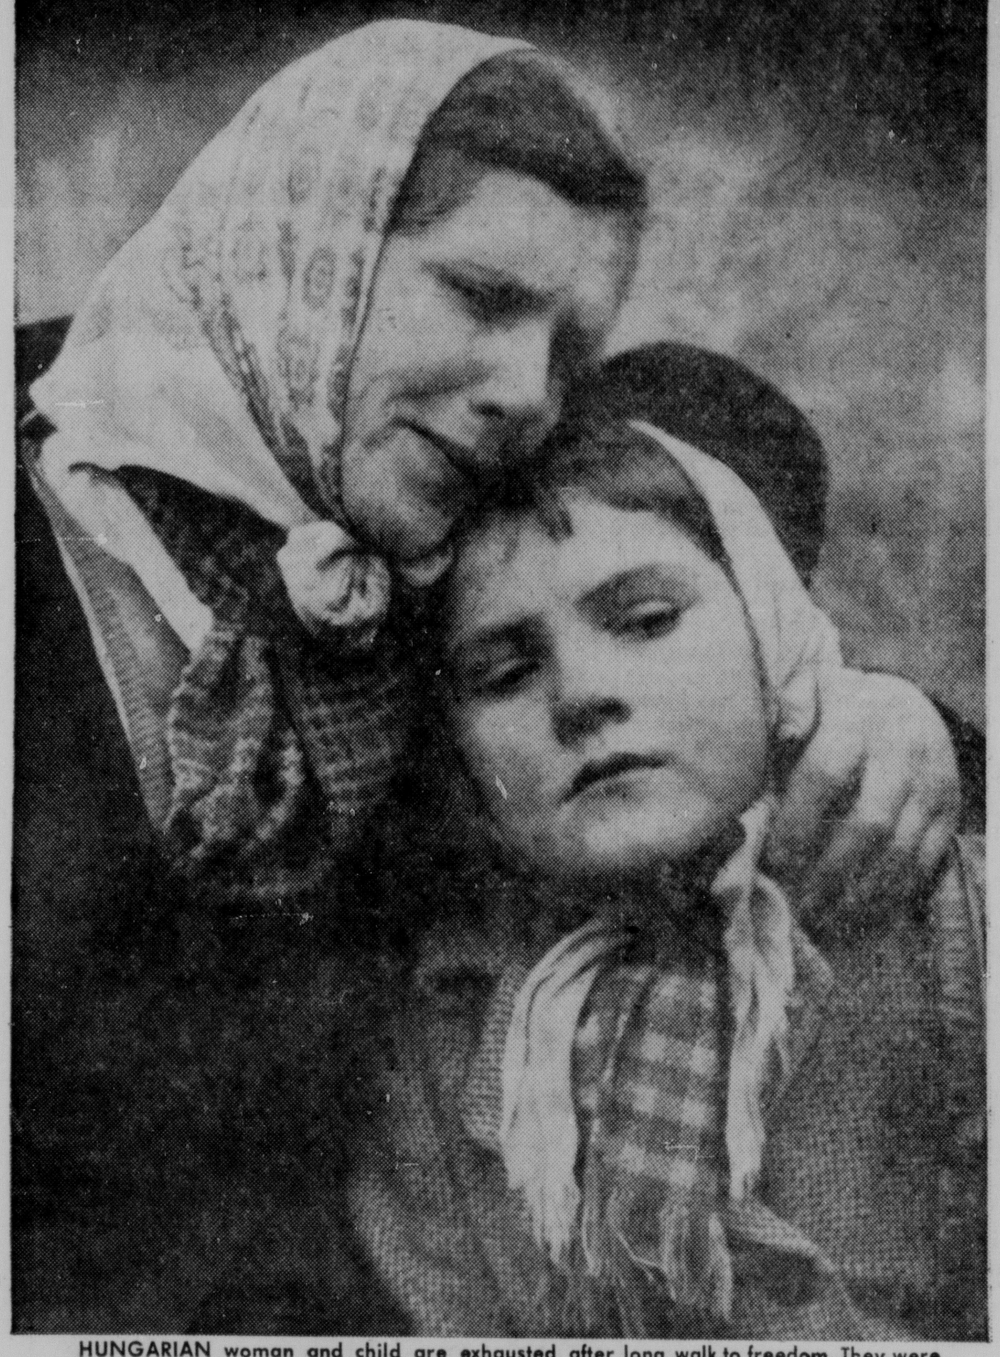
Thousands of persons, suffering from persecution or seeking a better way of life, continue to pour across national frontiers to join the great army of refugees which has grown into millions since World War II.

United Nation agencies—the high commissioner for refugees and the Palestine relief agency—are aiding more than two million persons displaced by war or other causes. This does not include the one million Chinese refugees in Hong Kong and the 2.7 million Germans who have fled into West Germany since 1949 to escape communist control.

In recent months the political ferment in Africa has created a new crop of refugees. The largest groups are 250,000 Algerians who fled into Morocco and Tunisia and 150,000 Angolans who crossed into the Congo to get away from what they called Portugese oppression. Still more recently, thousands of white Europeans are streaming into France to escape the terror and turmoil in Algeria.

Biggest single refugee operation in the world is the U. N.'s Middle East program which maintains 440,000 Arabs in 57 camps and provides rations for an additional 430,000. In the British crown colony of Hong Kong, local authorities are struggling to handle the tens of thousands of Chinese who poured in from Red China in the past few weeks. In Europe, the U. N. high commissioner is caring for 13,600 in camps and another 60,000 outside camps, often in worse condition than the camp-dwellers.

All these programs are financed by voluntary contributions from governments and private sources. The United States itself has become a haven for thousands of Cubans, fleeing the rule of Fidel Castro, and for others from Latin American countries.



HUNGARIAN woman and child are exhausted after long walk to freedom. They were among thousands who fled into Austria after Russia helped crush revolt in Hungary in 1956.

CHINESE refugee girl, stopped by barbed wire fence at Hong Kong border, pleads for food. Hong Kong was recent scene of mass attempt by Chinese to flee Red China.

CONGO refugees. In tribal conflict, some 300,000 Baluba tribesmen were driven from homes by more primitive Luluas. At camp, in Katanga province, Swedish soldier of U. N. force urges Balubas to form line for first food available.

EAST GERMAN mother feeds young son in West Berlin after daring escape with 22 others aboard commuter train. Nearly three million Germans have fled into West Germany since 1949 to escape communist control.

TIBETANS cross into Indian territory by foot after fleeing Chinese conquerors. Today there are 35,000 Tibetan refugees in India and 20,000 in Nepal.

ARAB refugees in the Gaza Strip. Uprooted by the Arab-Israeli war, the refugees are described as hapless hostages of the unresolved conflict between Israel and the Arab nations.

JEWS fleeing Egypt arrive at Naples in January, 1957. Repressive measures by Nasser regime after Israel's Sinai campaign forced more than 15,000 Jews to leave their native land.

CUBANS who fled Castro regime hold reunion at Miami airport. More than 100,000 have left the island since 1959.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm so mad at my husband I could brain him. Our 8-year-old son told his dad he heard all dogs have a homing instinct. He read in the paper about a dog who was driven 200 miles from home and dropped off on the road. Three weeks later the dog showed up at the back door.

The boy said he wanted to try an experiment with our Airedale. My dumb husband agreed. They drove King Tut out about 40 miles and let him out of the car.

That was 10 days ago. We have not seen The King since. Our son is heartbroken. He won't eat his meals and we don't know what to do with him. I can understand how a child could do such a thing, but a grown man — well, Ann, this beats me.

My husband says all dogs have homing instincts and that King Tut should have returned. How about this?—MARRIED TO A MORON.

Dear Married: Some dogs have better homing instincts than others and most husbands have better sense than yours.

Buy another Airedale for the boy and tell your husband not to try any more "scientific" experiments.

Big Contribution

Dear Ann: I was interested in the letter from the woman who listed the ways in which your column has changed her family's pattern of living.

In my opinion, your most valuable contribution is your encouragement to say "NO" — and not allow boorish acquaintances and nervy relatives to impose.

An imposition of one person on another is like a cancer. The only way to get rid of it is to cut it out the moment it is recognized — and the sooner the better.

Why are people afraid to say, "Look, I refuse to be used as a free-sitter—" or, "I'm sorry, but my home is not a restaurant and you can't keep dropping over here for meals."

It's so much healthier to say it and get it over with than to smolder in silence and chafe under the irritation. After all, what is there to lose? Life would be far more pleasant if the free-loaders and insensitive clods let you alone.—MRS. C. S. A.

-:-

Dear Mrs. C. S. A.: Thank you for reducing the Landers' philosophy to a few crisp sentences. Your condensation of one of my pet theories was skillful indeed.

End Of The Line

Dear Ann: Do you think it's right for a mother who is divorced from the father of her children to change the names of her children when she remarries?

Our daughter-in-law did this and my husband and I are heartbroken. Our family name is very precious to us. My husband is a fourth-generation American and the fifth in line to carry the name. We had only one son. Now that his son's name has been changed it means the end of the family line.

Our son says he doesn't care one way or the other but we care a great deal. Why would a mother do this cruel thing? Can we do anything about it? The boy's stepfather legally adopted him one year after he married his mother. Thanks for your help. —BOSTON.

Dear Boston: When your son permitted his boy to be legally adopted he relinquished all claim to the child. There is nothing you can do about it now.

Most young children want the same last name as the other members of the family. Older ones, however, sometimes prefer to keep their real father's name. When such is the case the child's preference should be respected.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Clinton Mishap Hurts City, Virginia Drivers

William J. Golba, 1574 Etruria St., escaped with a cut lip, but an Arlington (Va.) motorist was admitted to Sewickley Valley Hospital after their cars crashed nearly head-on Saturday morning on Route 30, a mile west of the center of Clinton.

The Carnegie Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police said Edward M. Spencer of Arlington was admitted to the hospital with lacerations of the left eyebrow and forehead and abrasions of right chest and knees.

Police said Spencer was westbound on Route 30 and as he was making a left turn into a motel Golba's car hit the front of his auto. Golba, traveling east, could not stop in time, police said.

Slight Damage Listed After Route 7 Mishap

Slight damage resulted from a two-car mishap on Route 7 near Williamsport Sunday, caused when a driver swerved after hitting a dog, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

A 1961 sedan driven north by Hazel F. MacKenzie, 55, of 315 E. 9th St. hit the dog about six miles south of Rogers at 8:30 a. m., and the auto swerved into the southbound lane, officers said.

Floyd Mageard, 31, of Hamlin, N. Y., also headed north behind the other auto, swerved into the south lane as the other auto slowed and his 1956 sedan hit the left front fender of the woman's car.

Nurse Quells Flames In Kitchen At Hospital

A fire in the kitchen of the men's ward at City Hospital was out on arrival Saturday afternoon at 4:02, according to city firemen.

Firemen said window curtains were ignited when they were blown over the flames of a gas hotplate. The fire was extinguished by a nurse.

A small grass fire on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." was extinguished Saturday at 1:15 p. m., firemen said.

Water Break Work Slowed

Repairing a bad break which occured Saturday morning in a 10-inch water main on Bradshaw Ave. has turned into a "giant size project" which will require at least two more days to complete, Supt. Donald T. Duke said today.

A water department crew worked throughout Saturday and Sunday, but still has not reached the broken section. Duke said the break is about 10 to 12 feet deep and after finally making the excavation, the crew discovered the feeder main crosses beneath a large storm sewer.

This necessitates moving over to the other side of the sewer and digging another hole, Duke commented. He said the storm sewer is of brick and concrete and is large enough for a six-foot man to walk upright inside.

All the excavation has to be done by hand, as three gas lines also are in the area, making it impossible to use any power equipment.

The break is at the junction of Bradshaw and an unnamed alley at the rear of the Winland Building. The Winland Lumber Co. is the only place without water. No other businesses or homes in the area are affected.

The crew is being hampered by water leaking into the six-foot square excavation. A bad valve at the intersection of Ravine St. and Bradshaw is allowing the water to pass through.

Duke said the crew first will pinpoint the leak and then replace the valve before making repairs to the main.

A febrile disease is one accompanied by a fever.

Floyd Mageard, 31, of Hamlin, N. Y., also headed north behind the other auto, swerved into the south lane as the other auto slowed and his 1956 sedan hit the left front fender of the woman's car.

Nurse Quells Flames In Kitchen At Hospital

A fire in the kitchen of the men's ward at City Hospital was out on arrival Saturday afternoon at 4:02, according to city firemen.

Firemen said window curtains were ignited when they were blown over the flames of a gas hotplate. The fire was extinguished by a nurse.

A small grass fire on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." was extinguished Saturday at 1:15 p. m., firemen said.

Water Break Work Slowed

Repairing a bad break which occured Saturday morning in a 10-inch water main on Bradshaw Ave. has turned into a "giant size project" which will require at least two more days to complete, Supt. Donald T. Duke said today.

A water department crew worked throughout Saturday and Sunday, but still has not reached the broken section. Duke said the break is about 10 to 12 feet deep and after finally making the excavation, the crew discovered the feeder main crosses beneath a large storm sewer.

This necessitates moving over to the other side of the sewer and digging another hole, Duke commented. He said the storm sewer is of brick and concrete and is large enough for a six-foot man to walk upright inside.

All the excavation has to be done by hand, as three gas lines also are in the area, making it impossible to use any power equipment.

The break is at the junction of Bradshaw and an unnamed alley at the rear of the Winland Building. The Winland Lumber Co. is the only place without water. No other businesses or homes in the area are affected.

The crew is being hampered by water leaking into the six-foot square excavation. A bad valve at the intersection of Ravine St. and Bradshaw is allowing the water to pass through.

Duke said the crew first will pinpoint the leak and then replace the valve before making repairs to the main.

A febrile disease is one accompanied by a fever.

Hugh Downs: Study In Unbowed Dignity

Hugh Downs is one of the best copers in the business. He coped with Jack Paar's moods for years. He has coped variously with roughnecks, esthetes, gushers, vulgarians, statesmen, and, worst of all, Hungarian actresses. Somehow he has even kept his aplomb after two weeks with Jerry Lewis.

Alan Gill

The man is a study in unbowed dignity, a man who can face a hairspray commercial and an atomic physicist with equal decorum.

It was rumored that the man, behind his cordial mask, was hankering for an assignment more in the line of elevated public service. News documentaries and stuff like that. No more getting his hair mussed by Eva Gabor.

LAST MONTH, the word was officially out that Hugh Downs will become the host of NBC's "Today" show, starting Sept. 10, succeeding John Chancellor. Is the assignment to the man's liking?

I put the question to him the other day and he said, "Sure, I wanted to get into public affairs programming. That's what I think 'Today' is. The show, of course, will take on a different shade of personality.

"We'll go in for things which haven't been in the foreground so far. We'll have more of the arts. In effect, 'Today' will be commissioning works from composers and sculptors and painters. We'll show the sculpture, play a bit of the music.

"We can't — with the kind of format the show has — very well play a 20-minute composition, but we can do excerpts and give the composer a little public attention."

-:-

THE OTHERS on the show? "Of course, we'll have Frank Blair doing the news. We plan to get more of an editorial feeling into the program, take some perhaps unpopular stands.

"Jack Lescoulie will be back with the show, and I couldn't be more pleased. Jack knows all about spectator sports, and I don't know a darned thing about them.

"We're looking for a 'Today' girl, which isn't as easy as it sounds. The girl you like in the early morning is a different kind of girl from the one you like at 1 a.m. She has to be bright and pretty — a certain KIND of pretty — and chic."

Downs, by any definition of the term, is a highbrow — a man of cultivated taste and vast knowledge. "I have a good memory," he said, "but most of the things I've learned have come to me by osmosis — by conversation on camera and off with some of the large-sized minds of the day, experts in 100 fields.

"And of course I read. I've been talking with Macmillan about doing a book, a how-to book on the use of books for learning.

"FOR EXAMPLE, you don't necessarily have to learn musical composition in a classroom. I've composed some things which have taught me plenty. I've done 'The Elegiac Prelude' and I have a new orchestral piece coming out called 'Sand Writing.' Desert stuff. And I'm working on a tone poem.

"And, for another example, I taught myself celestial navigation out of the book. One of the great satisfactions of my life was sailing from Martinique, at latitude 14 degrees 47 minutes, to British Harbor, Antigua, at latitude 16 degrees 30 minutes, and doing it all by celestial navigation. I told my kids that we'd be sighting land in 45 minutes and we did. Right on the button.

"I guess I'm a do-it-yourselfer. I built my own hi-fi set and telescope. I didn't grind my own lenses, though, the way Dave Garroway does. He's a real gimmick man.

"Dave and I were old friends in Chicago and I used to borrow his lathe. I came upon him one day and the guy looked crestfallen. It seems the front bumper of his Rolls Royce was too big for Dave's chrome-plating vat."

Robbery Nets $3,500

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A robbery at Hellreigel's Inn near here Sunday netted two gunmen wearing stocking masks about $3,500. William A. Kochever, co-owner of the restaurant and cocktail lounge, said he was accosted by the two men in his parking lot after the restaurant had closed. He said the men forced him to return to the building and at their order he showed them where the money was hidden.

Beaver County United Fund Gives Aid To Health Agencies

The United Fund of Beaver County said today hundreds of Beaver County citizens are deriving the advantages of extensive medical research, health education and treatment through the fund's affiliated health agencies.

The Western Pennsylvania Chapter, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, Beaver County Cancer Society, Beaver County Heart Association and the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Western Pennsylvania are aided by the fund.

The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation at Pittsburgh mans an information and referral bureau at the offices of the Beaver County Medical Society in Beaver Falls.

The foundation is serving over 230 county citizens who have been afflicted with arthritis. Many are receiving therapeutic treatment at the Faulk Clinic. Patients who are unable to travel, receive direct treatment at home with a mobile physical therapy unit.

During the last five years, the foundation has provided almost $200,000 to the University of Pittsburgh Medical Research Center for investigation into the probable causes and cures of arthritis and rheumatism.

The Beaver County Cancer Society, located in the Rochester General Hospital, operates a similar type of health service treatment clinic. People unable to pay for X-ray service and various drugs are referred by their own physician.

All persons with a known cancer tumor are registered at the clinic in case of further complications with their illness.

The Beaver County Heart Association is at 217 Sassafras Ln., Beaver. It too is providing direct service to victims of heart disease and providing funds to the Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh for research. Last year over 300 people were served by the agency.

The Western Pennsylvania Multiple Sclerosis Society, Pittsburgh reports that every known patient in Beaver County has been visited by a representative of the society.

A full time therapist is assigned to work with the more than 30 patients in the county.

Registrations also have been received from St. Louis, Chicago, Iowa, Kentucky, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and New Hampshire.

Crucible Terms Dust Eliminating Device Success

The Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. announced today it has completed installation of a new $40,000 dust collector in its blast furnace sintering plant.

A. T. Forrest, general engineering superintendent, commented: "Although the equipment has been operating only a short time, we are very pleased with the results."

"By using the collector, we are able to trap and carry away in trucks approximately three to five tons of dust a day," he said. "This is flue dust which formerly would have been discharged into the air.

Collection of the dust not only will contribute to a more dust-free atmosphere but will eliminate the acrid odor usually associated with sintering operations, he said.

The sinterating plant receives flue dust from the blast furnace and bakes the dust into a cake under a vacuum for reuse in the blast furnace. Flue dust contains 58 per cent iron.

The improvement is a part of Crucible's overall program for smoke and dust control, Forrest said.

Hammondsville Data Sought For New Span

Survey teams are at work in Hammondsville compiling data to be used in construction of a new two-lane bridge on Route 213, spanning Little Yellow Creek.

The State Highway Department expects to award a contract for the $115,000 project early in 1963.

Data is being compiled by a firm retained by Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter of Harrisburg, Pa., consulting engineers on the design and location of the bridge.

Length of the three-span bridge is one-tenth mile, according to the Division 11 State Highway Department office in New Philadelphia. The new structure will replace a one-lane bridge.

Robbery Nets $3,500

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A robbery at Hellreigel's Inn near here Sunday netted two gunmen wearing stocking masks about $3,500. William A. Kochever, co-owner of the restaurant and cocktail lounge, said he was accosted by the two men in his parking lot after the restaurant had closed. He said the men forced him to return to the building and at their order he showed them where the money was hidden.

Beaver County United Fund Gives Aid To Health Agencies

The United Fund of Beaver County said today hundreds of Beaver County citizens are deriving the advantages of extensive medical research, health education and treatment through the fund's affiliated health agencies.

The Western Pennsylvania Chapter, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, Beaver County Cancer Society, Beaver County Heart Association and the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Western Pennsylvania are aided by the fund.

The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation at Pittsburgh mans an information and referral bureau at the offices of the Beaver County Medical Society in Beaver Falls.

The foundation is serving over 230 county citizens who have been afflicted with arthritis. Many are receiving therapeutic treatment at the Faulk Clinic. Patients who are unable to travel, receive direct treatment at home with a mobile physical therapy unit.

During the last five years, the foundation has provided almost $200,000 to the University of Pittsburgh Medical Research Center for investigation into the probable causes and cures of arthritis and rheumatism.

The Beaver County Cancer Society, located in the Rochester General Hospital, operates a similar type of health service treatment clinic. People unable to pay for X-ray service and various drugs are referred by their own physician.

All persons with a known cancer tumor are registered at the clinic in case of further complications with their illness.

The Beaver County Heart Association is at 217 Sassafras Ln., Beaver. It too is providing direct service to victims of heart disease and providing funds to the Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh for research. Last year over 300 people were served by the agency.

The Western Pennsylvania Multiple Sclerosis Society, Pittsburgh reports that every known patient in Beaver County has been visited by a representative of the society.

A full time therapist is assigned to work with the more than 30 patients in the county.

Postmark Collectors Set Meeting In County

COLUMBIANA—Postmark collectors from throughout the United States and Canada will meet Aug. 11 at the Pfund Farm, near here.

Fifty have registered to date, including Mrs. Elmer H. Lawyer of Phoenix, Ariz., an authority on the origin of post office names.

Registrations also have been received from St. Louis, Chicago, Iowa, Kentucky, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut and New Hampshire.

Crucible Terms Dust Eliminating Device Success

The Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. announced today it has completed installation of a new $40,000 dust collector in its blast furnace sintering plant.

A. T. Forrest, general engineering superintendent, commented: "Although the equipment has been operating only a short time, we are very pleased with the results."

"By using the collector, we are able to trap and carry away in trucks approximately three to five tons of dust a day," he said. "This is flue dust which formerly would have been discharged into the air.

Collection of the dust not only will contribute to a more dust-free atmosphere but will eliminate the acrid odor usually associated with sintering operations, he said.

The sinterating plant receives flue dust from the blast furnace and bakes the dust into a cake under a vacuum for reuse in the blast furnace. Flue dust contains 58 per cent iron.

The improvement is a part of Crucible's overall program for smoke and dust control, Forrest said.

Hammondsville Data Sought For New Span

Survey teams are at work in Hammondsville compiling data to be used in construction of a new two-lane bridge on Route 213, spanning Little Yellow Creek.

The State Highway Department expects to award a contract for the $115,000 project early in 1963.

Data is being compiled by a firm retained by Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter of Harrisburg, Pa., consulting engineers on the design and location of the bridge.

Length of the three-span bridge is one-tenth mile, according to the Division 11 State Highway Department office in New Philadelphia. The new structure will replace a one-lane bridge.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: Knowing that many people travel in the summertime, and after reading your column, I am writing to tell you how I pack so that it might help others. I pack all of my hair items in one makeup box, and all of my make-up items in another. Then I lay out each dress on a portable rack, on its hanger. (By the way, when I do pack the dress, I put it in the suitcase right on its own hanger! Hotel rooms so seldom have enough hangers or the correct type).

I never pack a dress in a suitcase until I have laid out the matching shoes, purse, gloves and hat that I will wear with it. Then I pack my gloves and kerchief inside the purse that I will be carrying.

A bed is an excellent place to put out all of the items. When I have the entire outfit together, then I pack it. I always see that the belt is attached to the dress hanger for each dress.

I have a special case for my hats. It is a tall hatbox style. I always stuff my hats carefully with tissue paper and I put a good deal of the tissue inside the hat box so they will not rattle around in traveling.

When I get to my destination I unpack all of my clothing, including the hats so they can "stretch out and breathe." I never let my hats stay in their case.

As I wear each dress, I put it in the bottom of the suitcase on its hanger so I don't have to unpack that one again.

I always wash my underwear each night. One thing I cannot stand is to pack soiled clothing with clean clothing.

If possible, I also wash out my dresses each night. They are then clean to repack. Even if I do not have time the next day to iron them . . . at least they are clean when I repack them.

JOAN CRAWFORD

Yep, it's the movie star! See who reads our column? She's just like we are, girls — even washes her own clothing!

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: I have found that if you rub the spots caused by milk stains on baby clothes with some lemon juice and then put soap on it, the ugly stains will be removed. Afterward wash as usual in soapsuds and hot water and let dry in the sun.

MRS. TROY McDAVID

No Steam

DEAR HELOISE: This is for people who want to prevent steam from accumulating in the bathroom. I find when they fill the tub up with water to take a bath, if they will run the cold water first, just an inch or so, and then turn on the hot water, no steam accumulates.

ETHEL BROWN

Brushes Cleaned

DEAR HELOISE: The other day I was vacuuming my bathroom with my tank type vacuum cleaner. I happened to look up and see our hairbrushes which were full of hair.

I removed the brush attachment from the tube of the vacuum cleaner and put the hairbrush on the end of the tube, thereby sucking all of the hairs up into the vacuum. If there is anything I hate to do it is clean hairbrushes.

Chester Hearing Scheduled For 2

Two Smiths Ferry men, held in the Chester jail since Saturday night when they and a 15-year-old Smiths Ferry youth were taken into custody after causing a disturbance on Carolina Ave., were slated for hearings later today before Chester Mayor Harry Abrams.

Ernest J. Merritt, 20, was charged with contributing to the delinquency of the youth and Hugh A. Merritt, 20, was cited for disturbing the peace and appearing intoxicated in public.

Ernest Merritt was held under $105 bond and the other was held under $30 bond. The youth, who was released after questioning by Hancock County authorities at New Cumberland, was due a hearing before Juvenile Officer John Grossi.

Assistant Fire Chief Henry Stolzenburg, 52, was in fair condition at Elyria Memorial Hospital. Glenn Long, 51, of Elyria, the company's secretary and store manager, suffered minor burns on his right hand and also suffered smoke inhalation. Neither he nor the other four firemen were hospitalized.

Long told firemen the blaze apparently started from an overheated french fryer.

Fabric Wallcovering Has Many Advantages

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

There has been an increasing demand recently for what is called hand print wallpaper of very high quality.

The demand has been fostered by leading decorators and architects, who are utilizing it for home use, hotels, offices and other places where a luxury look is desired.

The average home owner, however, has to pass up this type of wallcovering for reasons of economy, much as he may admire its high styling in design and coloring.

His admiration is accentuated when he reads and hears about the silk textures and other wallcoverings recently installed in various rooms of the White House.

Some wallpaper manufacturers are certain that the trend, aided by the renewed interest in traditional decorating, soon will be apparent in homes of all types.

They are endeavoring to assist the movement by turning out wallcoverings which are modest in price, yet have the appearance of luxury. At least one wallpaper company has developed new printing techniques which enables it to simulate silks, flocks and other high stylings.

Durability has been made an important part of the product by the use of vinyl and acrylic coatings. These coatings enable fabric wallcovering to be cleansed of stains by using soap, water and a sponge.

Any readers who have tackled the job of removing ordinary wallpaper will be interested in the claim of those who make fabric wallcovering. It is said that the material can be removed from the wall merely by loosening a bottom corner and pulling an entire strip away.

Curious about this, having struggled through several wallpaper-removing tasks, we discussed it with an authority, manufacturer Jerome Blonder.

Yes, he confirmed, this type of material can be removed quite easily. Suppose, we asked, the fabric wallcovering becomes old and you want to change the decorative scheme, can new covering of the same type be applied right over it? Blonder replied that this could be done if you have reason to believe that the plaster underneath is soft or badly cracked.

In that case, the fabric must be scored with coarse sandpaper and sized before hanging the new wallcovering. But when the wall underneath is in good condition, the old fabric may be removed by the stripping method mentioned above.

While we're on the subject, here are some tips regarding the use of wallpaper and allied products.

Use small over-all patterned papers for small rooms with architectural defects. Use larger patterns for big rooms and lighter, brighter colors for rooms that tend to be dark. Use provincial paper if your furniture is early American, a brocade or similar type if your furniture is more formal.

Proper Paint Can Help You To Beat The Heat

NEW YORK — If you did not paint your patio, porch or terrace this spring, it's probably looking a little sad by now with all the wear it's been getting.

There are nearly three good hot months of summer left and you'll find the little effort it takes to paint will pay you practical as well as beautiful dividends. For paint can help you combat heat if you know how to put it to work.

With today's quick-drying quality paint, you can take a day off and have it looking party-fresh in time for tonight's or tomorrow afternoon's guests. So get busy now.

If the sun shines on a wall near your sitting area, don't paint it white because the heat reflected from this surface will be overwhelming. Instead, choose a heat-absorbing dark color which goes with the color scheme of your home.

Incidentally, deep-toned furniture exposed to the sun absorbs heat like a thermal sponge and will be most uncomfortable when you first sit down, particularly in shorts or swim suit. Use white or pastels for chairs, and you'll cut the sizzle by many degrees. Save the bold, darker colors for trim and parts where there is no body contact.

Speaking of furniture, it's wise to tie in the colors to those of your house exterior in some way. You might want to pick up the color of your roof, shutters or window boxes. On the other hand, earth tones in a building blend well with oranges and yellows. Any brown would be smart with shades of pink. White and green are nicely complemented by turquoises and pale blues.

Although the heat - absorption principle is one to follow, you can certainly use imaginative colors for your furniture. However, it is well to keep in mind that the blues, greens, blue-greens and violets are the "coolest" colors in the spectrum and lower your temperature psychologically to an amazing degree.

U.S. Schedules New Space Blast

HONOLULU (AP) — Unless weather or technical problems interfere, the United States will explode its second high-altitude nuclear warhead above Johnston Island late tonight.

The shot—one of the last of the current Pacific test series—will be much weaker than the thermonuclear explosion which lit up the mid-Pacific July 8. That blast was set off at a height of 210 miles and was seen from Hawaii to New Zealand.

Tonight's test will be at a probable altitude of 30 to 40 miles and will be in the sub-megaton range, equal to between 20,000 and one million tons of TNT.

The explosion is scheduled for 10 p.m. HST—3 a.m. EST Tuesday, but technical troubles or weather could delay it for as long as five hours.

Preventive Maintenance Urged For Water Heater

CHICAGO — Why do water heaters wait until after midnight to spring a leak?

The Plumbing- Heating-Cooling Information Bureau raises this question by way of emphasizing the fact that water heater leaks often occur at a most inconvenient time, such as when the family is asleep or when the homemaker is in the midst of a big family wash.

In this connection the bureau stresses the importance of preventive maintenance for water heaters.

While the water heater is an automatic appliance, it does require some attention. Once every two or three months the householder should open the valve at the bottom of the water heater tank and drain out a bucketful of hot water containing accumulated scale and sediment.

Preventive maintenance starts with the purchase of a water heater. This is the vital time when the capacity of the heater should be considered in relation to the demands made upon it now and in the foreseeable future.

The bureau points out that tank failure due to corrosion is likely to occur if the tank is undersized. The more frequently hot water is withdrawn from a tank, the more often the internal tank surface is exposed to a fresh supply of dissolved oxygen. The rate of corrosion is related to the amount of oxygen available to the metal surfaces in the tank.

Plumbing contractors are familiar with these and other facets relating to the serviceable life of water heaters. It is for this reason that it is prudent to get the advice of an experienced plumbing contractor on the purchase of a water heater and its subsequent care.

Here's Easy Way To Repair Garage Post That's Decayed

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

A week or so ago we saw a very clever and practical repair made to the supporting post between the doors of a double garage.

Termites had infested the post up to a height of 10 inches above the garage floor. It had looked as though the owner was in for an expensive repair bill, but a hard-headed handyman came up with an inexpensive answer to the problem.

His first step was to cut the post through at a level above the termite damage after he had driven two 2-by-4's between the floor and the header above the doors. This took the weight off the post and prevented any sag or dropping of the front wall of the garage.

Next he built a box or form beneath the sawed off post, making it just large enough to offer a full bearing for the post. This was then filled with concrete which came up just enough to have the bottom of the post slightly embedded. After four or five days, the box was removed, leaving a sturdy support and a permanent one.

In most cases the center support of a double garage door will be boxed in around the post, in which case the trim must be removed before the work is started and then replaced with any additional alteration the size of the concrete support may make necessary.

The cost of material for this job was less than $10 and the actual time required was five hours. A very interesting repair at an interesting price.

In situations where the decayed post is set on a footing below the garage floor, the rotted wood should be dug out and the hole filled with concrete before the job itself is done.

Memorial Slated For Hero Of War

MANHEIM, Germany (AP)—A memorial stone for U.S. war hero Dominic Vito Spinelli was scheduled to be unveiled here today at the sprawling Spinelli Army Barracks.

The ceremony climaxes a two-day dedication service for the young medic who died 17 years ago in Southern Germany. Brought here for the commemorative ceremonies were Spinelli's father, Dan Vito Spinelli; his mother, Esther, and sister Mariangela, from Hamilton, Ohio.

Two uncles, an aunt and four cousins, all Italians, joined in the services which included an open air High Mass sung Sunday by American, Italian and German Roman Catholic priests.

The hero, who would have been 39 today, died on April 14, 1945, trying to rescue four wounded comrades under enemy fire. He received the Silver Star posthumously.

Soldiers of the U.S. 19th Ordinance Battalion, now housed in Spinelli Barracks, collected $20,000 to bring the family together in Germany.

Oil On Screen Will Keep Out Small Insects

During the early part of the summer season, many home owners in the suburbs and rural areas are plagued with swarms of insects so small that they can penetrate the mesh of the average screen with extreme ease.

These minute creatures follow warm currents of air from an open window or door. And if cooking is going on in the house, they follow the trail with still greater speed and in greater numbers Fortunately, these swarms are very short - lived, but can be a great nuisance while still active.

The screening used in most houses is a standard size mesh, made with due consideration for the fact that a closer or finer mesh would prevent the free circulation of air. However, it is helpless against this type of insect.

A method has been devised to reduce the size of the mesh temporarily during the small-insect season. This consists of wiping the mesh freely with a heavy oil such as linseed oil. This reduces the openings of the screening far more than might be imagined. And, in addition, an insect need only touch the tip of a wing to the oil wires to become stuck fast there and then.

The oil should not be applied so heavily as to drip from the screen. It will not harm the wire or the paint of the screen frame. And when it is no longer required, it can be removed with a cloth dampened with turpentine.

The procedure has been tried for many years and has been found extremely effective as well as economical. It is a simple answer to a small but aggravating problem.

Tips Are Offered On Light Cutout

Question: We have a small dining alcove that adjoins our kitchen. I have decided to cover one wall of the alcove with the same kind of plastic laminate that is on our sink counter and our kitchen table.

Since I put the sink counter on, I have a good idea of how to apply the plastic laminate. But one things stumps me. How can I be certain that the opening cutout for the light switch is accurately positioned?

Answer: There are a number of ways in which this can be done. This is the method used by most professionals.

Using a dark crayon, preferably black, make a heavy line around the light switch location after the outer plate has been removed. Take the sheet of plastic laminate and put it in the exact position in which it ultimately will be bonded to the wall. Press down hard on the plastic laminate at the point where the cutout will be made. In fact, make a fist and pound it lightly against that area.

Remove the laminate and you will find that the crayon outline has been transferred to the back of it. Now make the cutout from the backside of the laminate. Since there is a possibility of getting rough edges on the face of the plywood, make the cut just inside the crayon outline. This allows a little extra room for filing down the rough edges.

U.S. Schedules New Space Blast

HONOLULU (AP) — Unless weather or technical problems interfere, the United States will explode its second high-altitude nuclear warhead above Johnston Island late tonight.

The shot—one of the last of the current Pacific test series—will be much weaker than the thermonuclear explosion which lit up the mid-Pacific July 8. That blast was set off at a height of 210 miles and was seen from Hawaii to New Zealand.

Tonight's test will be at a probable altitude of 30 to 40 miles and will be in the sub-megaton range, equal to between 20,000 and one million tons of TNT.

The explosion is scheduled for 10 p.m. HST—3 a.m. EST Tuesday, but technical troubles or weather could delay it for as long as five hours.

Wellsville And Rogers Bars Await Hearings

Permit - holders of Wellsville and Rogers taverns are scheduled for hearings on citations Friday before the State Liquor Control Board at Columbus.

A hearing is set at 9:30 a.m. for Jerome and Katherine Drago, operators of Jerry's Bar, 231 3rd St., Wellsville, on a citation for having no food available for service. The citation was issued June 4, 1961.

A hearing is set at the same time for Mary E. and Jack Artrup, operators of the Y-Inn at Rogers, accused of permitting after-hours consumption of drinks. The citation was issued April 10.

Preventive Maintenance Urged For Water Heater

CHICAGO — Why do water heaters wait until after midnight to spring a leak?

The Plumbing- Heating-Cooling Information Bureau raises this question by way of emphasizing the fact that water heater leaks often occur at a most inconvenient time, such as when the family is asleep or when the homemaker is in the midst of a big family wash.

In this connection the bureau stresses the importance of preventive maintenance for water heaters.

While the water heater is an automatic appliance, it does require some attention. Once every two or three months the householder should open the valve at the bottom of the water heater tank and drain out a bucketful of hot water containing accumulated scale and sediment.

Preventive maintenance starts with the purchase of a water heater. This is the vital time when the capacity of the heater should be considered in relation to the demands made upon it now and in the foreseeable future.

The bureau points out that tank failure due to corrosion is likely to occur if the tank is undersized. The more frequently hot water is withdrawn from a tank, the more often the internal tank surface is exposed to a fresh supply of dissolved oxygen. The rate of corrosion is related to the amount of oxygen available to the metal surfaces in the tank.

Plumbing contractors are familiar with these and other facets relating to the serviceable life of water heaters. It is for this reason that it is prudent to get the advice of an experienced plumbing contractor on the purchase of a water heater and its subsequent care.

Here's Easy Way To Repair Garage Post That's Decayed

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

A week or so ago we saw a very clever and practical repair made to the supporting post between the doors of a double garage.

Termites had infested the post up to a height of 10 inches above the garage floor. It had looked as though the owner was in for an expensive repair bill, but a hard-headed handyman came up with an inexpensive answer to the problem.

His first step was to cut the post through at a level above the termite damage after he had driven two 2-by-4's between the floor and the header above the doors. This took the weight off the post and prevented any sag or dropping of the front wall of the garage.

Next he built a box or form beneath the sawed off post, making it just large enough to offer a full bearing for the post. This was then filled with concrete which came up just enough to have the bottom of the post slightly embedded. After four or five days, the box was removed, leaving a sturdy support and a permanent one.

In most cases the center support of a double garage door will be boxed in around the post, in which case the trim must be removed before the work is started and then replaced with any additional alteration the size of the concrete support may make necessary.

The cost of material for this job was less than $10 and the actual time required was five hours. A very interesting repair at an interesting price.

In situations where the decayed post is set on a footing below the garage floor, the rotted wood should be dug out and the hole filled with concrete before the job itself is done.

Memorial Slated For Hero Of War

MANHEIM, Germany (AP)—A memorial stone for U.S. war hero Dominic Vito Spinelli was scheduled to be unveiled here today at the sprawling Spinelli Army Barracks.

The ceremony climaxes a two-day dedication service for the young medic who died 17 years ago in Southern Germany. Brought here for the commemorative ceremonies were Spinelli's father, Dan Vito Spinelli; his mother, Esther, and sister Mariangela, from Hamilton, Ohio.

Two uncles, an aunt and four cousins, all Italians, joined in the services which included an open air High Mass sung Sunday by American, Italian and German Roman Catholic priests.

The hero, who would have been 39 today, died on April 14, 1945, trying to rescue four wounded comrades under enemy fire. He received the Silver Star posthumously.

Soldiers of the U.S. 19th Ordinance Battalion, now housed in Spinelli Barracks, collected $20,000 to bring the family together in Germany.

Tips Are Offered On Light Cutout

Question: We have a small dining alcove that adjoins our kitchen. I have decided to cover one wall of the alcove with the same kind of plastic laminate that is on our sink counter and our kitchen table.

Since I put the sink counter on, I have a good idea of how to apply the plastic laminate. But one things stumps me. How can I be certain that the opening cutout for the light switch is accurately positioned?

Answer: There are a number of ways in which this can be done. This is the method used by most professionals.

Using a dark crayon, preferably black, make a heavy line around the light switch location after the outer plate has been removed. Take the sheet of plastic laminate and put it in the exact position in which it ultimately will be bonded to the wall. Press down hard on the plastic laminate at the point where the cutout will be made. In fact, make a fist and pound it lightly against that area.

Remove the laminate and you will find that the crayon outline has been transferred to the back of it. Now make the cutout from the backside of the laminate. Since there is a possibility of getting rough edges on the face of the plywood, make the cut just inside the crayon outline. This allows a little extra room for filing down the rough edges.

Steel Orders Fail To Spurt As Expected

CLEVELAND (AP) — Competition is sharpening in Europe's steel market because the Soviet bloc has been flooding western Europe with steel at "bargain" prices, Steel Magazine said today.

Products include concrete reinforcing bars, slabs, structural shapes and wire rods.

The national metalworking weekly noted that mills in Belgium and Luxembourg have been striving for a bigger piece of the continental market "because of shaky overseas prices." They have traditionally concentrated on exports, Steel said.

"In this country," the publication continued, "at least a half dozen independent Texas producers are meeting the import price on reinforcing bars. To counter import competition, major American producers are doing more and more fabricating, which is hurting independent fabricating shops."

In this country, new orders for steel are not increasing as had been expected. Producers are hopeful, however, that the new depreciation tax rules will strengthen fourth quarter demand, Steel said.

"For the next few weeks, steelmakers expect only gradual improvement in sales. Now they're running only slightly ahead of June's."

The sales lag resulted in a steel production decline last week, when Steel estimated ingot output tumbled 10,000 tons from the previous week's total. Output this week is expected to be slightly higher than the 1,360,000 tons poured last week.

The price composite on No. 1 heavy melting steelmaking scrap rose 67 cents to $26 a gross ton, highest since mid-May, Steel reported.

Search Pressed For Owners Of Unclaimed Cash

The Pennsylvania State Department of Revenue at Harrisburg is making a final attempt to trace the owners of approximately $1½ million in unclaimed money, Charles M. Dougherty, secretary, said today.

Law requires the department to publicize unclaimed funds each July. The money is in savings and checking accounts, securities, insurance policies, dividend checks and other unclaimed assets reported to the Division of Escheats during the past year by banks, insurance companies, corporations and public utilities.

The department has written to the owners, but the money remains unclaimed. Should the owners fail to act before September, the money will be escheated by the department and placed in the State Treasury, where it will be held pending claim.

Upon proof of ownership the person or heirs will receive the amount escheated plus two per cent interest.

Most of the accounts are relatively small. However, at least 37 are over $1,000.

These Tips Should Help If Buying At Auction

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The antique auction is a magnet to many women, particularly those who are on vacation trying their hand at bidding for the first time at country sales.

The theory is that anything bought at auction must be worth more than you pay for it. 'Taint so.

Little country auction sales have far surpassed the expectations of people who have sold off household effects, finding that a chipped cookie jar bought 10 years before and ready for the junk pile brought handsome returns when auctioned off.

Country auctions are unpredictable and one who acquaints himself with the methods employed by auctioneers and who understands the value of the merchandise can make excellent purchases.

Some basic tips for new bidders to keep in mind are these:

1. Always inspect merchandise before you bid on it. Most auctions permit review of the wares a day or two before the sale or for several hours before the sale if the auction is outdoors. Make a note of any item you like with the number, and its approximate value to you. Resolve not to bid on anything you haven't seen close up.

2. Is there anything shown that you need or want to collect? If not, don't bid. It's a good idea anyway to attend a few auctions to see how they operate before you make your first bid.

3. If you see something you want but don't know its value, try to estimate it before the auction. If it is an antique, visit a couple of antique shops and see what they are asking for comparable objects. Plan to bid from about 50 per cent of that figure up to 75 per cent of it, if you can't live without the item. If the piece is not an antique, decide what it is worth to you on the basis of what it would sell for new, and use that as your guide.

4. Avoid becoming emotional about the item when you are bidding. Auctioneers are like bird dogs in ferreting out a compulsive buyer. It is just good sales sense, they reason, to encourage anxious buyers and run up the bids. If you are in unfamiliar territory, an overzealous auctioneer may even call out non-existent bids to raise yours. You could find to your chagrin that you've paid many times more than the article is worth because you've been intrigued by the spirited bidding.

5. If the object you've selected to bid on needs repairs, decide whether it is worth repairing and can be repaired. Nicked and broken furniture often runs into quite an investment, even though the purchase seemed like a bargain.

6. Decide how you are going to cart the object you've bought if it is big. If you are away from home and must have it crated and shipped, the cost could be much more than you anticipate.

7. If you figure you have an investment, don't ruin the object. Avoid sawing legs off an antique or painting over gold leaf. Once you've changed it, you have a different piece of furniture. There is no such thing as a remodeled antique. Paint and stain can be removed from old pieces to bring back the natural wood finish but major alterations or obliteration of design can ruin its value.

8. If an antique is bought for use in the home, don't buy it merely for historical value. It should be attractive and a flattering asset to your home as well, something to keep in mind when assembling old objects.

Three Building Materials Bother Home Painters

By ANDY LANG

Queries about painting far outnumber those in any other do-it-yourself category.

And it is apparent, too, that three building materials seem to give the home painter lots of trouble: cinder and slag blocks, cooper and copper alloys and galvanized steel.

With cinder and slag blocks, the complaint usually involves poor adherence and peeling and especially brown rust stains. This results from the unique nature of the material, which combines iron content with both acidity and alkalinity.

Ordinary masonry paints are not always the answer. And latex paints will cause rust stains when the water with which these paints are thinned reacts with the iron.

The best results with cinder and slag blocks can be obtained by using solvent - thinned chlorinated rubber paint.

This is sometimes called swimming pool paint. It is necessary to wire brush all dirt, loose particles, flacking old paint and the white powdery substance known as efflorescence. Any grease or oil can be washed off with a detergent and water or wiped off with a paint thinner.

Copper, brass and bronze, as well as brass-plated steel, should be permitted to weather for several months until they become dull. While these materials usually are not painted, there apparently are times when home owners wish to do so.

If the painting must be done immediately, an odorless paint thinner can be used to remove all traces of grease.

If it is known that the material has a lacquer coating, this should be removed with lacquer thinner before painting. A metal primer, which does not contain zinc, is then applied, followed by an exterior paint or enamel.

Galvanized metal also should be permitted to weather for six months to remove any protective coating applied in the factory.

When immediate painting is necessary, the manufacturer of the galvanized product can advise what treatment is recommended prior to painting.

Since it often is inconvenient to contact the manufacturer, your hardware or paint dealer can recommend the proper primer. This usually is a zinc dust-zinc oxide or a zinc chromate paint. After the primer has hardened, apply an exterior paint.

County Due $174,576 In State's Distribution

Columbiana County will receive $174,576 in the state's distribution of local government funds in the new fiscal year that began July 1, down $3,458 from the $178,034 it was paid in the previous 12 months, State Auditor James A. Rhodes announced over the weekend at Columbus.

Payments in the current fiscal year will be $14,548 month, compared with $14,837 in the previous fiscal year, Rhodes said.

The money is distributed among counties under a formula that provides 75 per cent on the basis of their total municipal tax duplicate in relation to the total municipal tax duplicate of the state and 25 per cent on the relation of the county's population to the total population of the state.

Trio Faces Quiz In Kentucky Gun Duel Killing Man

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Police intended to question three persons today about the wounding of a patrolman and the death of an Ohio man.

Detective Capt. Gilbert Cravens said charges may be filed after the interrogation.

The three, Jetty Isaacs, 20, and her sister, Helen, 24, both of Cincinnati, and James C. Skeen Jr., 30, Akron, Ohio, were all hospitalized.

They and the victim, Arthur Patrick Helmick, 34, also of Cincinnati, were injured when a car in which they were riding crashed into a tree while being pursued by a patrol car.

Cravens said Helmick was shot once in the chest during a gun fight with patrolman Gaylord L. Thompson, 25. Thompson was reported in fair condition with wounds in the abdomen, thigh and knee.

Thompson was called late Saturday night to investigate a disturbance from an argument between Helmick and his brother, Fred, whom the Ohioans were visiting.

When Thompson arrived Helmick was outside firing a pistol at the house, police said. Helmick began firing at Thompson when he approached, and Thompson returned the fire, they said.

Thompson radioed for help and an answering patrol car chased Helmick and his companions in their car until it went out of control.'

Queries about painting far outnumber those in any other do-it-yourself category.

And it is apparent, too, that three building materials seem to give the home painter lots of trouble: cinder and slag blocks, cooper and copper alloys and galvanized steel.

With cinder and slag blocks, the complaint usually involves poor adherence and peeling and especially brown rust stains. This results from the unique nature of the material, which combines iron content with both acidity and alkalinity.

Ordinary masonry paints are not always the answer. And latex paints will cause rust stains when the water with which these paints are thinned reacts with the iron.

The best results with cinder and slag blocks can be obtained by using solvent - thinned chlorinated rubber paint.

This is sometimes called swimming pool paint. It is necessary to wire brush all dirt, loose particles, flacking old paint and the white powdery substance known as efflorescence. Any grease or oil can be washed off with a detergent and water or wiped off with a paint thinner.

Copper, brass and bronze, as well as brass-plated steel, should be permitted to weather for several months until they become dull. While these materials usually are not painted, there apparently are times when home owners wish to do so.

If the painting must be done immediately, an odorless paint thinner can be used to remove all traces of grease.

If it is known that the material has a lacquer coating, this should be removed with lacquer thinner before painting. A metal primer, which does not contain zinc, is then applied, followed by an exterior paint or enamel.

Galvanized metal also should be permitted to weather for six months to remove any protective coating applied in the factory.

When immediate painting is necessary, the manufacturer of the galvanized product can advise what treatment is recommended prior to painting.

Since it often is inconvenient to contact the manufacturer, your hardware or paint dealer can recommend the proper primer. This usually is a zinc dust-zinc oxide or a zinc chromate paint. After the primer has hardened, apply an exterior paint.

County Due $174,576 In State's Distribution

Columbiana County will receive $174,576 in the state's distribution of local government funds in the new fiscal year that began July 1, down $3,458 from the $178,034 it was paid in the previous 12 months, State Auditor James A. Rhodes announced over the weekend at Columbus.

Payments in the current fiscal year will be $14,548 month, compared with $14,837 in the previous fiscal year, Rhodes said.

The money is distributed among counties under a formula that provides 75 per cent on the basis of their total municipal tax duplicate in relation to the total municipal tax duplicate of the state and 25 per cent on the relation of the county's population to the total population of the state.

Trio Faces Quiz In Kentucky Gun Duel Killing Man

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Police intended to question three persons today about the wounding of a patrolman and the death of an Ohio man.

Detective Capt. Gilbert Cravens said charges may be filed after the interrogation.

The three, Jetty Isaacs, 20, and her sister, Helen, 24, both of Cincinnati, and James C. Skeen Jr., 30, Akron, Ohio, were all hospitalized.

They and the victim, Arthur Patrick Helmick, 34, also of Cincinnati, were injured when a car in which they were riding crashed into a tree while being pursued by a patrol car.

Cravens said Helmick was shot once in the chest during a gun fight with patrolman Gaylord L. Thompson, 25. Thompson was reported in fair condition with wounds in the abdomen, thigh and knee.

Thompson was called late Saturday night to investigate a disturbance from an argument between Helmick and his brother, Fred, whom the Ohioans were visiting.

When Thompson arrived Helmick was outside firing a pistol at the house, police said. Helmick began firing at Thompson when he approached, and Thompson returned the fire, they said.

Thompson radioed for help and an answering patrol car chased Helmick and his companions in their car until it went out of control.

Last-Place Nats Kick Yanks Twice; Indians Halt Angels

Bernie Allen Smacks 9th HR, Has Perfect Day But Twins Lose

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Somebody down here must like the Angels.

Even when they lose, the Los Angeles Angels gain. They were finally stopped, 7-3 by the Cleveland Indians Sunday, after winning five straight. But they still picked up a half game on the New York Yankees, and now trail the American League leaders by three games. The Yankees surprisingly dropped both ends of a double-header to last-place Washington 3-2 and 8-3.

The Angels' lofty station defies all laws of mathematics. They are seventh in team batting, eighth in home runs, ninth in fielding and 10th in pitching (complete games) but second in the standings with 53 victories against 41 defeats.

Third-place Minnesota missed a golden opportunity to close in on the Angels, bowing to Baltimore 8-6 while Chicago's White Sox downed Boston's Red Sox 7-3 as outfielder Floyd Robinson had a record tying 6-for-6 at the plate. Kansas City whipped Detroit 11-3.

Willie Kirkland and Jerry Kindall were the big guns as the Indians broke a nine-game losing streak. After being shut out on four hits by Los Angeles' Ken McBride Saturday night, the Indians broke out with 15 safeties against starter Don Lee and four relievers. Kirkland drove in three runs with his 16th home run and a single. Kindall batted in a pair with his 10th homer.

Right-handers Dave Stenhouse and Bennie Daniels went the distance against the Yankees and were given home run support by Harry Bright, Jim King and Chuck Hinton. Bright hit a three-run homer off loser Bill Stafford in the first inning to account for all the runs in the Senators' first-game triumph.

The Yankees had won nine straight prior to the double debacle.

Robinson became the 22nd American leaguer to have a 6-for-6 day and the first since Joe DeMaestri did it for Kansas City July 8, 1955. Ed Delahanty is the only batter to collect six hits in a game twice. The major league record is Wilbert Robinson's 7-for-7 for Baltimore in 1892.

Robinson had six singles, connecting safely off each of five Red Sox hurlers. He drove in his 71st run and also scored once. The victory went to Frank Baumann in relief. The White Sox stranded 16 runners.

Jackie Brandt drove in three runs with a home run and three singles and made a spectacular catch to play the starring role in Baltimore's victory which snapped a six-game Minnesota winning streak. Robin Roberts won his sixth game in nine decisions. He retired in the seventh when he developed a stiffness in his arm. Brandt's game-saving catch came in the ninth. He raced far to his left to pull down a line drive by Bill Tuttle with the bases loaded.

Bernie Allen Has Good Weekend At Plate

Bernie Allen blasted Baltimore pitching at a torrid pace over the weekend to wrap up one of his best showings so far in the American League. Saturday Allen had three hits in four trips including a double and two singles. Sunday, in the Twins' 8-6 loss to the Orioles, Allen smacked his ninth home run of the season, and added two singles for a perfect three for three day. The performance lifted his batting average over the .250 mark.

Locals Top Beaver Twice

The East Liverpool Pony League All-Stars who faced elimination after losing Friday's tournament opener, came roaring back on a no-hitter by strong-armed Len Walker, then went on to capture a doubleheader over Beaver Saturday at Dopler Field.

Walker's excellent pitching performance, which saw only one ball getting out of the infield, came in the first game as East Liverpool mopped up Beaver 5-1 in the double elimination play.

A righthander, Walker overpowered the Beaver batters as he fanned 13. Beaver came up with its lone run in the fourth inning when a runner scored on an error.

East Liverpool came up with single runs in the second, third and fifth innings, then punched two across in the sixth.

In addition to his masterful pitching, Walker banged out a double for one of six hits by the locals.

In the second game, East Liverpool trailed 2-1 going into the last of the third inning, but came up with five big runs, which carried the local stars to an 8-2 victory.

Walker, who played third base in the second contest, banged out another double and single to lead a seven-hit attack.

Bob Burkhart started for East Liverpool, but was hit by a pitched ball and was relieved by left-hander Jerry Vaughn, who successfully blanked Beaver over the last 3 and 2-3 innings.

The double victory sends East Liverpool against the winner of the Weirton-Mingo Junction game. The contest will be played at Dopler Field Saturday.

Alston Shuffles Pitching Lineup With Koufax Out

CHICAGO (AP) — Because of the injury suffered by southpaw pitching sensation Sandy Koufax, Manager Walt Alston has been forced to manipulate his Los Angeles pitching staff with the calculated cunning of a champion chess player.

So far, so good. Despite the loss of Koufax, the Dodgers have won four of their last five games and Alston has tested starters ready to work three-game sets at St. Louis and against the second-place San Francisco Giants this week.

After that comes the second All-Star break and by then or shortly thereafter, the Dodgers hope to get some encouraging reports on Koufax who last week lost all feeling in the index finger of his pitching hand and might be lost to the Dodgers for at least six weeks.

With Koufax out, Don Drysdale, Johnny Podres and Stan Williams all volunteered to work with less than the usual three-day rest.

"I certainly like that kind of spirit," said Alston today. "But I can't work my staff that way now. If there were only a couple of weeks left to the season, I might gamble. But if I started doing that now, they might come up with sore arms long before its over."

Right now the Dodger pitching staff is the key to the National League race. Alston looks to Podres (5-7) and Williams (9-5) to be more effective through the final months of the race. Koufax (14-5) is the question mark and the sooner he comes back the better the Dodgers chances for a pennant.

The East Liverpool City Softball League All-Stars defeated Salem 5-1 Sunday at Dopler Field.

Tice was the winning pitcher, giving up only three hits. Thompson was charged with the loss.

Player Wins PGA By 1 Over Goalby

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEWTON SQUARE, Pa. (AP) — Gary Player, an intense little South African to whom golf is a way of life as well as a good source of income, has accomplished three quarters of his ambitions—winning three of the world's top four golf championships.

And who do you suppose gets the major credit? Arnie Palmer, a guy who won't be satisfied until he wins all four in one year.

Player, winner of the British Open championship in 1959 and the Masters title in 1961, added the United States Professional Golfers Association title to his list Sunday when he finished one stroke ahead of Bobby Goalby in what he called "the most exciting game I've ever had."

Player shot a 70 for 278, two under par for the 72 holes. Goalby's 67 left him a stroke back at 279.

The only major title Player has missed is the U.S. Open championship. His best in that one came in 1958 when he trailed Tommy Bolt by only one stroke.

Player, trying to relax after a closing day which kept a record gallery of 18,000 on edge until the last shot, said there was one thing he had learned just before this tournament.

"I had been playing a lot of exhibitions with (Arnold) Palmer," he said. "I always thought driving was one of my good points, but I finally realized I couldn't outdo him.

"Today I never used a driver off the tee. I generally used a four wood and I never missed a fairway."

Player started the final round two strokes in front of George Bayer, a one-time football player for the Washington Redskins, and Bob McCallister, who quit football in his freshman year in high school. Goalby quickly moved up as the No. 1 challenger.

"I'm not a very good leader," Player had said after his third round, but his final performance belied his words. He played a sedate defensive game with an even par 70 for the rugged, hilly Aronimink course.

McCallister and Bayer muffed their chances, but Goalby, a handsome young man who never has won one of the big tournaments on the American circuit, made Player hustle to the very end. He had a chance to tie on the last hole and his 25-footer for a birdie barely missed.

Player's victory was worth $13,000, which put him in fifth place in the money-winning derby with a total of $41,513.34 this year. Palmer, who finished with a final round of 72 and a 288 total that tied for 17th place, earned $966.67. He still is the top money man with $71,198.33 for the year.

Last-Place Nats Kick Yanks Twice; Indians Halt Angels

Bernie Allen Smacks 9th HR, Has Perfect Day But Twins Lose

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Somebody down here must like the Angels.

Even when they lose, the Los Angeles Angels gain. They were finally stopped, 7-3 by the Cleveland Indians Sunday, after winning five straight. But they still picked up a half game on the New York Yankees, and now trail the American League leaders by three games. The Yankees surprisingly dropped both ends of a double-header to last-place Washington 3-2 and 8-3.

The Angels' lofty station defies all laws of mathematics. They are seventh in team batting, eighth in home runs, ninth in fielding and 10th in pitching (complete games) but second in the standings with 53 victories against 41 defeats.

Third-place Minnesota missed a golden opportunity to close in on the Angels, bowing to Baltimore 8-6 while Chicago's White Sox downed Boston's Red Sox 7-3 as outfielder Floyd Robinson had a record tying 6-for-6 at the plate. Kansas City whipped Detroit 11-3.

Willie Kirkland and Jerry Kindall were the big guns as the Indians broke a nine-game losing streak. After being shut out on four hits by Los Angeles' Ken McBride Saturday night, the Indians broke out with 15 safeties against starter Don Lee and four relievers. Kirkland drove in three runs with his 16th home run and a single. Kindall batted in a pair with his 10th homer.

Right-handers Dave Stenhouse and Bennie Daniels went the distance against the Yankees and were given home run support by Harry Bright, Jim King and Chuck Hinton. Bright hit a three-run homer off loser Bill Stafford in the first inning to account for all the runs in the Senators' first-game triumph.

The Yankees had won nine straight prior to the double debacle.

Robinson became the 22nd American leaguer to have a 6-for-6 day and the first since Joe DeMaestri did it for Kansas City July 8, 1955. Ed Delahanty is the only batter to collect six hits in a game twice. The major league record is Wilbert Robinson's 7-for-7 for Baltimore in 1892.

Robinson had six singles, connecting safely off each of five Red Sox hurlers. He drove in his 71st run and also scored once. The victory went to Frank Baumann in relief. The White Sox stranded 16 runners.

Jackie Brandt drove in three runs with a home run and three singles and made a spectacular catch to play the starring role in Baltimore's victory which snapped a six-game Minnesota winning streak. Robin Roberts won his sixth game in nine decisions. He retired in the seventh when he developed a stiffness in his arm. Brandt's game-saving catch came in the ninth. He raced far to his left to pull down a line drive by Bill Tuttle with the bases loaded.

Bernie Allen Has Good Weekend At Plate

Bernie Allen blasted Baltimore pitching at a torrid pace over the weekend to wrap up one of his best showings so far in the American League. Saturday Allen had three hits in four trips including a double and two singles. Sunday, in the Twins' 8-6 loss to the Orioles, Allen smacked his ninth home run of the season, and added two singles for a perfect three for three day. The performance lifted his batting average over the .250 mark.

Locals Top Beaver Twice

The East Liverpool Pony League All-Stars who faced elimination after losing Friday's tournament opener, came roaring back on a no-hitter by strong-armed Len Walker, then went on to capture a doubleheader over Beaver Saturday at Dopler Field.

Walker's excellent pitching performance, which saw only one ball getting out of the infield, came in the first game as East Liverpool mopped up Beaver 5-1 in the double elimination play.

A righthander, Walker overpowered the Beaver batters as he fanned 13. Beaver came up with its lone run in the fourth inning when a runner scored on an error.

East Liverpool came up with single runs in the second, third and fifth innings, then punched two across in the sixth.

In addition to his masterful pitching, Walker banged out a double for one of six hits by the locals.

In the second game, East Liverpool trailed 2-1 going into the last of the third inning, but came up with five big runs, which carried the local stars to an 8-2 victory.

Walker, who played third base in the second contest, banged out another double and single to lead a seven-hit attack.

Bob Burkhart started for East Liverpool, but was hit by a pitched ball and was relieved by left-hander Jerry Vaughn, who successfully blanked Beaver over the last 3 and 2-3 innings.

The double victory sends East Liverpool against the winner of the Weirton-Mingo Junction game. The contest will be played at Dopler Field Saturday.

Player Wins PGA By 1 Over Goalby

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEWTON SQUARE, Pa. (AP) — Gary Player, an intense little South African to whom golf is a way of life as well as a good source of income, has accomplished three quarters of his ambitions—winning three of the world's top four golf championships.

And who do you suppose gets the major credit? Arnie Palmer, a guy who won't be satisfied until he wins all four in one year.

Player, winner of the British Open championship in 1959 and the Masters title in 1961, added the United States Professional Golfers Association title to his list Sunday when he finished one stroke ahead of Bobby Goalby in what he called "the most exciting game I've ever had."

Player shot a 70 for 278, two under par for the 72 holes. Goalby's 67 left him a stroke back at 279.

The only major title Player has missed is the U.S. Open championship. His best in that one came in 1958 when he trailed Tommy Bolt by only one stroke.

Player, trying to relax after a closing day which kept a record gallery of 18,000 on edge until the last shot, said there was one thing he had learned just before this tournament.

"I had been playing a lot of exhibitions with (Arnold) Palmer," he said. "I always thought driving was one of my good points, but I finally realized I couldn't outdo him.

"Today I never used a driver off the tee. I generally used a four wood and I never missed a fairway."

Player started the final round two strokes in front of George Bayer, a one-time football player for the Washington Redskins, and Bob McCallister, who quit football in his freshman year in high school. Goalby quickly moved up as the No. 1 challenger.

"I'm not a very good leader," Player had said after his third round, but his final performance belied his words. He played a sedate defensive game with an even par 70 for the rugged, hilly Aronimink course.

McCallister and Bayer muffed their chances, but Goalby, a handsome young man who never has won one of the big tournaments on the American circuit, made Player hustle to the very end. He had a chance to tie on the last hole and his 25-footer for a birdie barely missed.

Player's victory was worth $13,000, which put him in fifth place in the money-winning derby with a total of $41,513.34 this year. Palmer, who finished with a final round of 72 and a 288 total that tied for 17th place, earned $966.67. He still is the top money man with $71,198.33 for the year.

Ward Is Winner Of Trenton Race

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Rodger Ward, the speed demon from Speedway, Ind., drove his leader car special to victory Sunday in the Trenton Speedway's National Championship Auto Race that was cut short by a thunderstorm.

The race, scheduled for 150 laps, was halted in the 142nd.

Ward, who won the Indianapolis 500 on Memorial Day, averaged 100.976 miles per hour. He collected top money of $6,700.

Taking second, and $4,200, was Don Branson of Champaign, Ill. Don Davis of Phoenix, Arix., got $2,800 for finishing third.

Ward's time for the 142 laps was 1 hour, 24 minutes and 22.54 seconds. He set a track record for the first 100 miles by averaging 101.723 mph.

Alston Shuffles Pitching Lineup With Koufax Out

CHICAGO (AP) — Because of the injury suffered by southpaw pitching sensation Sandy Koufax, Manager Walt Alston has been forced to manipulate his Los Angeles pitching staff with the calculated cunning of a champion chess player.

So far, so good. Despite the loss of Koufax, the Dodgers have won four of their last five games and Alston has tested starters ready to work three-game sets at St. Louis and against the second-place San Francisco Giants this week.

After that comes the second All-Star break and by then or shortly thereafter, the Dodgers hope to get some encouraging reports on Koufax who last week lost all feeling in the index finger of his pitching hand and might be lost to the Dodgers for at least six weeks.

With Koufax out, Don Drysdale, Johnny Podres and Stan Williams all volunteered to work with less than the usual three-day rest.

"I certainly like that kind of spirit," said Alston today. "But I can't work my staff that way now. If there were only a couple of weeks left to the season, I might gamble. But if I started doing that now, they might come up with sore arms long before its over."

Right now the Dodger pitching staff is the key to the National League race. Alston looks to Podres (5-7) and Williams (9-5) to be more effective through the final months of the race. Koufax (14-5) is the question mark and the sooner he comes back the better the Dodgers chances for a pennant.

Local All-Star Team Defeats Salem, 5-1

The East Liverpool City Softball League All-Stars defeated Salem 5-1 Sunday at Dopler Field.

Jones, Boston, Landfried and Tice led the winners with two hits each. John Eckstein paced the losers with a triple.

Dodgers Club Chicago To Maintain 2-Game Margin

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Mets' magic number is 13.

It has been obvious from the start of the season—when Casey Stengel's unlikely crew of heroes lost nine straight—that the number 13 would be closely associated with the new National League team.

Indeed, some of their more disappointed followers insist that they perform as if each and every player wore that number on his uniform. That, however, is not the point.

Thirteen is the magic number. Any combination of Los Angeles Dodger victories or New York Mets defeats totaling 13 will mathematically eliminate New York's bedraggled darlings from the National League title.

With a little luck—and the Mets have a lot of it, all bad — they could make it by Aug. 1. Which may be some sort of record in reverse, about the only type they are shooting for. They lurched two more giant steps toward one of those backward marks Sunday.

Cincinnati beat the hapless tailenders 11-4 and 4-3 for a double header sweep with New York blowing an early lead in each game.

Frisco's Power Bruises Bucs, 5-4

Pinch hitter Marty Keough completed the rout by clubbing a home run leading off the ninth inning of the nightcap, breaking a 4-3 tie. It provided New York with its eighth straight loss and pushed its record against the Reds to 0-7. It also was the 25th one-run game lost by New York this season.

The leading Dodgers maintained their two-game margin, clubbing Chicago 13-6 in a game halted because of rain after 6½ innings. San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 5-4, St. Louis took Houston 3-1 and Milwaukee swept a couple from Philadelphia, 11-10 and 5-2.

In the American League, last-place Washington broke New York's nine-game winning string with a sweep of two, 3-2 and 8-3, Cleveland beat Los Angeles 7-3, Chicago defeated Boston 7-3 with the White Sox' Floyd Robinson contributing six hits, Baltimore out-lasted Minnesota 8-6 and Kansas City bombed Detroit 11-3.

New York, which is now 39 games behind, had a 4-1 lead in the first game and 1-0 in the second before sixth-inning Cincinnati uprisings wiped them out. A two-run triple by Hank Foiles featured the six-run Red rally in the first and Vada Pinson's three-run homer did the job in second. The Mets scrambled back to tie the second game, but Keough's third homer of the season sent them reeling to their third longest losing string of the season. The Reds now have won five in a row.

The Dodgers jumped on Cub starter Don Cardwell for five runs in the first inning and took it from there in the rain-shortened romp. Los Angeles' 15 hits included homers by Frank Howard and Harry Burright and a couple of triples by Willie Davis. Maury Wills stole his 49th base. Ernie Banks hit his 24th homer for the Cubs.

San Francisco's victory over the Pirates gave them a 2½-game edge over the third-place Pirates.

Bob Gibson (13-6) of St. Louis stopped Houston on seven hits, but had to have help from Lindy McDaniel in the ninth. Gibson retired 18 of the last 20 men to face him.

Milwaukee trailed 8-1 at one point in its opener against Philadelphia, but scored seven runs in the fourth inning and held on behind the solid relief pitching of Don Nottebart to win it.

U.S. Track Team Runs Up Widest Margin On Soviets

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The Soviet Union's track and field team came here with hopes high for defeating the United States men's team only to have them dashed by the highest score run up by an American team in this international competition.

Uncle Sam's young men's squad, giving a solid outlook for the 1964 Olympics, scored 128 points to 107 for the Soviet team in this fourth U.S.A-U.S.S.R. competition.

The Soviets' Valery Brumel proved the individual star of Sunday's competition with a world record high jump of 7 feet 5 inches. In Saturday's opening events, Hal Connolly of the United States broke his own hammer throw world record with a heave of 231 feet 10 inches.

Women of the Soviet continued their mastery over Uncle Sam's girls as they scored 66 points to 41.

Twelve meet records fell during the two days of the men's competition — nine of them by United States athletes. Among the women, three were set, all by Russians.

Coach John Oelkers of Tulane, head of the men's team, voiced pride with his squad and the outlook for the United States in international competition.

"Our '64 Olympic team will be great—this team is really young and our veterans will still be young enough, Oelkers said.

Soviet coach Gavriel Korobkov had termed this year's team the best men's group the U.S.S.R. had sent into the international competition. But as the Russians and Americans joined hands in the closing ceremonies, the U.S.S.R. men owned only three meet records, including Brumel's great high jump, and a double by Pyotr Bolotnikov in the 10,000 and 5,000 meter races.

Little Jim Beatty had set an American record of 3 minutes 39.9 seconds in winning the 1,500 meter race.

Other meet records for the men were:

110-meter high hurdles, Jerry Tarr, U.S.A., :13.4.

Shot put, Dallas Long, U.S.A., 64 feet 1 inch.

10,000 meters, Bolotnikov, 29:-17.7.

Pole Vault, Ron Morris, U.S.A., 16-¾.

400-meter hurdles, Willie Atterberry, U.S.A., :50.3.

Discus, Al Oerter, U.S.A., 200-1.

800-meters, Jerry Siebert, U.S.A., 1:46.4.

1,600-meter relay, U.S.A., 3:03.8.

On the relay team were Dave Archibald, California frosh, Ray Saddler, Texas Southern frosh, Ulis Williams, Arizona State frosh, and veteran Rex Cawley of Southern California.

The Russian women record breakers were:

Javelin, Elyvira Ozolina, 183-4½

Discus, Tamara Press, 189-5.

Shot put, Tamara Press, 57-¾.

4 Baseball Greats Wait Hall Of Fame Induction

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—This picturesque village braced itself for an overflow crowd of 10,000 autograph-hungry fans today when Bobby Feller, Jackie Robinson, Edd Roush and Bill McKechnie were to be inducted formally into the Baseball Hall of Fame.

The appearance of Feller and Robinson, stars of recent vintage, plus the drawing power of the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves, who play the Hall of Fame exhibition game, was expected to shatter all attendance records.

Feller and Robinson of the modern era and Roush and McKechnie of the oldtimers' group were to be present at morning ceremonies when their plaques will be dedicated.

The ball game features the Yanks' M & M boys and the Braves' Henry Aaron and Eddie Mathews.

Both Feller, 43, and Robinson, 42, were selected by the members of the Baseball Writers Association of America the first year they were eligible. Both stepped down in 1956. The election was held last winter.

Feller, the one-time Iowa farmboy with the blazing fast ball and the dazzling strikeout record, commanded 150 of the 160 votes. Robinson, first Negro ever to play in the majors and first Negro ever elected to the Hall of Fame, received 124 votes. It was necessary to poll 75 per cent (120) of the 160 votes cast.

The veterans' committee of 12 unanimously named both Roush and McKechnie last January. Until Sunday, when the method was changed to 20 years, they considered only those retired 30 years.

Roush was a great center fielder with Cincinnati and New York. He had a lifetime batting average of .325 and led the National League in 1917 with .341 and in 1919 with .321. He used a 48-ounce bat and played an unusually shallow center field.

McKechnie, 72, was the only man to manage pennant winners in three different National League cities. He won at Pittsburgh in 1925, at St. Louis in 1928 and at Cincinnati in 1939 and 1940.

Feller, of course, was a great strikeout pitcher. His mark of fanning 18 in a game has been tied but never beaten. His record of 346 strikeouts in 1946 still stands. He won 266 games in 18 years, pitched three no-hitters and 12 one-hitters.

Robinson broke the color line with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947. He had a lifetime average of .311 and led the league with .342 in 1949. A daring base runner and steady fielder, he was a key man on six Dodger pennant winners.

Of the 90 men in The Hall, 52 were picked by the veterans' committee and 38 by the writers. Only eight of the ancients are still living and 19 of the moderns.

Colt Loop All-Stars Bow In Extra-Inning Tilt, 8-3

East Liverpool's Colt League Stars carried North Boros into extra innings before bowing, 8-3, Sunday at the local Colt Field.

The double elimination tournament finds East Liverpool traveling to Pittsburgh Wednesday. The opponent will be known Tuesday.

North Boros, from the Pittsburgh area, broke on top with a three-run third inning. But sparked by Dennis Horger's double which drove in two runs, East Liverpool tied the game at 3-3 in the last of the seventh. Ron Burns continued to pitch masterful ball, when North Boros came up with five runs to ice the victory.

Each team collected seven hits, but East Liverpool's defenses broke down with seven errors.

Lersch was the winning pitcher, relieving Rosenfelder.

Denny Burke and Horger paced East Liverpool at the plate with two hits each.

Col. Glenn Fails In Water Skiing Orbit At Hyannis

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr.—who successfully made three orbits of the earth—tried making it around Lewis Bay on water skis while vacationing with the first family over the weekend.

Glenn did considerably better in outer space.

With President Kennedy looking on and with Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy at the controls of the motorboat, Glenn and Jacqueline Kennedy went water skiing Sunday on a tandem tow. Both took spills.

Glenn, his wife and two children were weekend guests of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the President's brother. It was a family gathering, with a full complement of Kennedys joining the Glenns on a cruise aboard the Kennedy family yacht, Marlin.

The President spent most of the day on board the Marlin, going over the side once for a short swim.

At one point, Mrs. Kennedy took her daughter, Caroline, on water skis with her. Caroline, who will be 5 in November, was bundled in a huge orange life preserver.

The percussion cap was invented by the Rev. A. J. Forsyth of England who obtained his patent in 1807. He made a fulminating powder of chlorate of potash, sulphur, and charcoal exploded by concussion.

Rogers will be eligible to defend his title next year.

The doubles championship went to a team of Doug Creamer of Butler and Horwitz. This pair defeated Paul Jarvis and Fine 5-7, 6-3, and 6-3.

Free tennis clinic will be held each Wednesday and Saturday at 10 a.m. for the remainder of the summer.

Dodgers Club Chicago To Maintain 2-Game Margin

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Mets' magic number is 13.

It has been obvious from the start of the season—when Casey Stengel's unlikely crew of heroes lost nine straight—that the number 13 would be closely associated with the new National League team.

Indeed, some of their more disappointed followers insist that they perform as if each and every player wore that number on his uniform. That, however, is not the point.

Thirteen is the magic number. Any combination of Los Angeles Dodger victories or New York Mets defeats totaling 13 will mathematically eliminate New York's bedraggled darlings from the National League title.

With a little luck—and the Mets have a lot of it, all bad — they could make it by Aug. 1. Which may be some sort of record in reverse, about the only type they are shooting for. They lurched two more giant steps toward one of those backward marks Sunday

Cincinnati beat the hapless tailenders 11-4 and 4-3 for a double header sweep with New York blowing an early lead in each game.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Frisco's Power Bruises Bucs, 5-4

Pinch hitter Marty Keough completed the rout by clubbing a home run leading off the ninth inning of the nightcap, breaking a 4-3 tie. It provided New York with its eighth straight loss and pushed its record against the Reds to 0-7. It also was the 25th one-run game lost by New York this season.

The leading Dodgers maintained their two-game margin, clubbing Chicago 13-6 in a game halted because of rain after 6½ innings. San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 5-4, St. Louis took Houston 3-1 and Milwaukee swept a couple from Philadelphia, 11-10 and 5-2.

In the American League, last-place Washington broke New York's nine-game winning string with a sweep of two, 3-2 and 8-3, Cleveland beat Los Angeles 7-3, Chicago defeated Boston 7-3 with the White Sox' Floyd Robinson contributing six hits, Baltimore out-lasted Minnesota 8-6 and Kansas City bombed Detroit 11-3.

New York, which is now 39 games behind, had a 4-1 lead in the first game and 1-0 in the second before sixth-inning Cincinnati uprisings wiped them out. A two-run triple by Hank Foiles featured the six-run Red rally in the first and Vada Pinson's three-run homer did the job in second. The Mets scrambled back to tie the second game, but Keough's third homer of the season sent them reeling to their third longest losing string of the season. The Reds now have won five in a row.

Joe Nuxhall, just recalled from San Diego, received credit for the first game victory and Jim Brosnan (4-1) got the second.

The Dodgers jumped on Cub starter Don Cardwell for five runs in the first inning and took it from there in the rain-shortened romp. Los Angeles' 15 hits included homers by Frank Howard and Harry Burright and a couple of triples by Willie Davis. Maury Wills stole his 49th base. Ernie Banks hit his 24th homer for the Cubs.

San Francisco's victory over the Pirates gave them a 2½-game edge over the third-place Pirates.

Bob Gibson (13-6) of St. Louis stopped Houston on seven hits, but had to have help from Lindy McDaniel in the ninth. Gibson retired 18 of the last 20 men to face him.

Milwaukee trailed 8-1 at one point in its opener against Philadelphia, but scored seven runs in the fourth inning and held on behind the solid relief pitching of Don Nottebart to win it.

U.S. Track Team Runs Up Widest Margin On Soviets

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The Soviet Union's track and field team came here with hopes high for defeating the United States men's team only to have them dashed by the highest score run up by an American team in this international competition.

Uncle Sam's young men's squad, giving a solid outlook for the 1964 Olympics, scored 128 points to 107 for the Soviet team in this fourth U.S.A-U.S.S.R. competition.

The Soviets' Valery Brumel proved the individual star of Sunday's competition with a world record high jump of 7 feet 5 inches. In Saturday's opening events, Hal Connolly of the United States broke his own hammer throw world record with a heave of 231 feet 10 inches.

Women of the Soviet continued their mastery over Uncle Sam's girls as they scored 66 points to 41.

Twelve meet records fell during the two days of the men's competition — nine of them by United States athletes. Among the women, three were set, all by Russians.

Coach John Oelkers of Tulane, head of the men's team, voiced pride with his squad and the outlook for the United States in international competition.

"Our '64 Olympic team will be great—this team is really young and our veterans will still be young enough, Oelkers said.

Soviet coach Gavriel Korobkov had termed this year's team the best men's group the U.S.S.R. had sent into the international competition. But as the Russians and Americans joined hands in the closing ceremonies, the U.S.S.R. men owned only three meet records, including Brumel's great high jump, and a double by Pyotr Bolotnikov in the 10,000 and 5,000 meter races.

Little Jim Beatty had set an American record of 3 minutes 39.9 seconds in winning the 1,500 meter race.

Other meet records for the men were:

110-meter high hurdles, Jerry Tarr, U.S.A., :13.4.

Shot put, Dallas Long, U.S.A., 64 feet 1 inch.

10,000 meters, Bolotnikov, 29:-17.7.

Pole Vault, Ron Morris, U.S.A., 16-¾.

400-meter hurdles, Willie Atterberry, U.S.A., :50.3.

5,000 meters, Bolotnikov, 13:55.y

1,600-meter relay, U.S.A., 3:03.8.

On the relay team were Dave Archibald, California frosh, Ray Saddler, Texas Southern frosh, Ulis Williams, Arizona State frosh, and veteran Rex Cawley of Southern California.

The Russian women record breakers were:

Discus, Tamara Press, 189-5.

Shot put, Tamara Press, 57-¾.

4 Baseball Greats Wait Hall Of Fame Induction

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—This picturesque village braced itself for an overflow crowd of 10,000 autograph-hungry fans today when Bobby Feller, Jackie Robinson, Edd Roush and Bill McKechnie were to be inducted formally into the Baseball Hall of Fame.

The appearance of Feller and Robinson, stars of recent vintage, plus the drawing power of the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves, who play the Hall of Fame exhibition game, was expected to shatter all attendance records.

Feller and Robinson of the modern era and Roush and McKechnie of the oldtimers' group were to be present at morning ceremonies when their plaques will be dedicated.

The ball game features the Yanks' M & M boys and the Braves' Henry Aaron and Eddie Mathews.

Both Feller, 43, and Robinson, 42, were selected by the members of the Baseball Writers Association of America the first year they were eligible. Both stepped down in 1956. The election was held last winter.

Feller, the one-time Iowa farmboy with the blazing fast ball and the dazzling strikeout record, commanded 150 of the 160 votes. Robinson, first Negro ever to play in the majors and first Negro ever elected to the Hall of Fame, received 124 votes. It was necessary to poll 75 per cent (120) of the 160 votes cast.

The veterans' committee of 12 unanimously named both Roush and McKechnie last January. Until Sunday, when the method was changed to 20 years, they considered only those retired 30 years.

Roush was a great center fielder with Cincinnati and New York. He had a lifetime batting average of .325 and led the National League in 1917 with .341 and in 1919 with .321. He used a 48-ounce bat and played an unusually shallow center field.

McKechnie, 72, was the only man to manage pennant winners in three different National League cities. He won at Pittsburgh in 1925, at St. Louis in 1928 and at Cincinnati in 1939 and 1940.

Feller, of course, was a great strikeout pitcher. His mark of fanning 18 in a game has been tied but never beaten. His record of 346 strikeouts in 1946 still stands. He won 266 games in 18 years, pitched three no-hitters and 12 one-hitters.

Robinson broke the color line with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947. He had a lifetime average of .311 and led the league with .342 in 1949. A daring base runner and steady fielder, he was a key man on six Dodger pennant winners.

Of the 90 men in The Hall, 52 were picked by the veterans' committee and 38 by the writers. Only eight of the ancients are still living and 19 of the moderns.

Col. Glenn Fails In Water Skiing Orbit At Hyannis

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr.—who successfully made three orbits of the earth—tried making it around Lewis Bay on water skis while vacationing with the first family over the weekend.

Glenn did considerably better in outer space.

With President Kennedy looking on and with Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy at the controls of the motorboat, Glenn and Jacqueline Kennedy went water skiing Sunday on a tandem tow. Both took spills.

Glenn, his wife and two children were weekend guests of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the President's brother. It was a family gathering, with a full complement of Kennedys joining the Glenns on a cruise aboard the Kennedy family yacht, Marlin.

The President spent most of the day on board the Marlin, going over the side once for a short swim.

At one point, Mrs. Kennedy took her daughter, Caroline, on water skis with her. Caroline, who will be 5 in November, was bundled in a huge orange life preserver.

The percussion cap was invented by the Rev. A. J. Forsyth of England who obtained his patent in 1807. He made a fulminating powder of chlorate of potash, sulphur, and charcoal exploded by concussion.

Duncan forfeited a $32.50 bond when he failed to appear this morning in Municipal Court before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

A charge of failure to stop in the assured clear distance was filed against Joseph M. Payne, 35, of 138 Haywood St., Beechwood, following a two-car mishap at 7:24 a.m. yesterday at Harvey Ave. and Putnam St., police said.

Payne's 1958 four-door sedan hit the rear of a 1957 four-door operated by Henry L. Roach, 43, of 439 Virginia Ave., who was halted for a traffic signal, police said. The crash damaged the entire front end of Payne's auto and the entire rear of Roach's car, officers said.

Payne was fined $10 and costs by Judge Chertoff at a hearing this morning. He pleaded guilty.

Gerald Faulk, 328 Grant St., told police the left rear fender and door of his 1961 sedan were damaged about 1:38 a. m. Sunday when struck by a hit-skip car while parked on St. John St. 50 feet south of Grant St.

Ralph R. Springer, 327 Broadway, reported another hit-skip crash Sunday at 10:30 a. m. He said the left rear fender of his 1956 sedan was damaged while the car was parked on E. 6th St. between 6 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 a. m. yesterday.

Teen-Aged Dieter Hails New Attitude

"I dread going back to school. I'm so overweight I'm ashamed to walk in the halls. I need to lose 25 pounds. I've tried diets but my will is weak. Please help me." This plea came from a 14-year-old.

Ida Jean Kain

Teens and preteens, if that "baby fat" appears to be permanently glued on, join our summer slimming session. It's the greatest favor you could do yourself. Let me give you a model to follow. A 16-year old wrote:

"A weight problem can ruin a girl's life. I know. Last year no boy would even look at me. This year I actually had two bids to the Spring Prom. I used to miss out on so much of the fun.

"The way I lost my 30 bulgy pounds was to stop eating sweets. I laid off the sundaes, the ice cream shakes and cokes. I know now that all a girl needs to do to reduce is to eat three balanced meals a day, and use a little, or should I say, a lot of will power. Signed, A Happy Loser."

—:—

TEENERS, GET OFF to the right start. Hitch your will to a goal and you've got it! The elusive force known as will power is really want power. You can have what you wholeheartedly want.

Here's a potent secret — will power is your strongest desire of the moment. Play a challenging game. In that moment when you are tempted to toss caution to the summer breezes and eat a banana split — pull up short. Say to yourself, "I can have that gooey stuff if I want to — but what do I really want?" Right out loud say, "I want to get out of the fat girl class this summer!"

Oh girls, it's a magic moment when you know what you really want and awaken to the fact that fun isn't in eating that sweet! If these words seem to leap up at you, claim them for your very own. Say to yourself, "This is for me!"

Never tell yourself what you can't do. That's defeating. The winning way is to tell yourself what you want to do and picture yourself taking charge of your life. Get in the spirit of slimming down and having fun. With this new attitude, suddenly you will be set free.

Teeners, this happens — and it's magic!

Say to yourself, "I can have that gooey stuff if I want to — but what do I really want?" Right out loud say, "I want to get out of the fat girl class this summer!"

Oh girls, it's a magic moment when you know what you really want and awaken to the fact that fun isn't in eating that sweet! If these words seem to leap up at you, claim them for your very own. Say to yourself, "This is for me!"

Never tell yourself what you can't do. That's defeating. The winning way is to tell yourself what you want to do and picture yourself taking charge of your life. Get in the spirit of slimming down and having fun. With this new attitude, suddenly you will be set free.

Teeners, this happens — and it's magic!

Dinner, Film Mark Reunion For 1927 Lisbon High Class

The 1927 graduating class of Lisbon David Anderson High school held its second reunion Saturday evening at St. George's Parish Hall.

Dinner was served at 6:30. The class colors — crimson and silver — were used at the tables in the flower arrangements and in crepe paper streamers. Twenty-five attended.

Miss Gladys Loudon presided in the absence of Leland Adams, president, who was ill. It was decided to hold another reunion in five years. Miss Ruth Bye was named president and Mrs. Francis Clunk, secretary-treasurer.

Film Presented

Movies were shown of the reunion five years ago taken by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crosser. Atty. and Mrs. George Lafferty showed their pictures of Hawaii taken on a trip early this summer.

Out-of-town members attending were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fair from Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Stark of Girard; Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Baker of Alliance, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Filler (Verda Flugan) of Salem and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Swaney of Rogers.

Mrs. Norman Ward was in charge of arrangements.

Veterans Entertained

The Lisbon Lionettes took their entertainment unit to Crile Veterans Hospital, near Cleveland, Saturday evening to present a program for the patients.

In addition to the regular acts, Mrs. Kenneth George and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wilson and sons, Tod and Rod, were guest performers.

Mrs. Dewey Brooks served as the mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Wilson played several accordion solos and also accompanied the Lionettes musical numbers at the piano. Rod and Tod sang and also played a cornet and trumpet duet, accompanied by their father on the guitar and Mrs. Wilson at the piano.

The group took a treat of candy bars and gum.

Club Has 3 Guests

Duplicate bridge was the diversion when Mrs. J. A. Noble of E. Lincoln Way entertained the Optimistic Club Friday night.

Three tables were in play. Guests were Mrs. J. J. Bennett, Mrs. A. G. Marshall and Mrs. Russell Hendricks.

Mrs. Leo Capehart of N. Market St. will receive the club Aug. 3.

Mrs. Kenneth Clapsaddle and Mrs. Homer Ferguson returned Friday night from Tiffin, where they spent last week at the summer conference of the Women's Guild at Heidleberg College.

Mrs. Clapsaddle was a representative as the regional president and Mrs. Ferguson represented the local St. Jacob's United Church of Christ Guild. Some 325 attended.

Bids Waited Tuesday On 2nd Freeway Step

The State Highway Department will open bids at Columbus Tuesday at 11 a. m. for construction of the second stage of an East Liverpool area freeway, stretching from the city limits in California Hollow to the intersection with State Route 170 near Calcutta.

The section will be comprised of two 24-foot limited access lanes in a new right-of-way, with an interchange at the junction with Route 170. It will be just under two miles long.

The new stage will tie in with the first stretch of the freeway, which extends from the city limits to W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. Construction on the first stage will be finished this fall. It has been under way since early 1961.

Newly-Bought Drapes Removed From Auto

Mrs. Nellie Claudio, 1205 Clover St., Wellsville, reported to police this morning $49.45 worth of merchandise she had just purchased was stolen from a car parked on Broadway.

Mrs. Claudio told officers the theft occurred between 10:30 and 10:40. She said the loss included five pairs of drapes, drapery hooks and curtain rods.

She put the packages in a car owned by Ernest Colliers, 306 12th St., Wellsville, she said.

Woman Driver Hurt

A woman driver received a knee injury in a one-car mishap on Route 558 east of East Fairfield this morning about 9, according to a report received by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon. An officer was investigating the mishap, reported by the East Palestine police, to whom the woman was taken after the crash.

Only one person out of a population of 30,000 in the city of St. Pierre survived the eruption of Mount Pelee on the island of Martinique in 1902. He was a prisoner in an underground cell.

Junior Editors Quiz on SHOES

QUESTION: Where did high heels originate?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Shoes which held the dainty feet of highborn Chinese ladies up out of the mud were worn a long time ago, but these could hardly be said to have had high heels. The use of a heel on a shoe begins in the 14th Century when it began to be popular to slip the low soft shoe of those times inside of a pair of wooden "pattens" (A) when walking outside. These pattens had very distinct heels which became higher as time went by. Sometimes the shoes were attached to the pattens. An example of this is shown (B); this Italian shoe looks very much like the "wedge" shoes many women wear at present. In (C) the black part, although a patten or overshoe, looks very much like one of our shoes of today. It is said that the first Queen Elizabeth, who pioneered a fashion for wearing hand-knitted silk stockings, was the first to introduce low cut slippers which had high heels attached. These swiftly became fashionable. With the elegant clothes developed in the 17th Century, Elizabeth's clumsy slipper was trimmed down and heightened (D) so that it looked very much like the fashionable high-heeled pump of our present time (E).

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: While women were developing high heels for beauty's sake, men were beginning to use them for another reason. Do you doubt this? Look through a Western magazine and see if you can find out why.

Rains Come, Do Little To End Drought

By The Associated Press

The rains came to the parched Northeast over the weekend, but they were too scattered and came too heavily for too short a time to offer substantial relief to drought-plagued farmers.

Showers and some downpours hit areas of New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Connecticut, but their scattered pattern and duration were such that they succeeded in flooding storm sewers and did not seep into the soil.

The showers hit sections of New Jersey's five northern drought-disaster area counties as well as some counties farther south.

In New York State, the 11-week drought has affected 32 counties with nearly 75 per cent of the state's farmland.

The U.S. Geological Survey held out little hope for drought relief.

Noting that below-normal rainfall is forecast for August and that shallow wells in eastern and central New York are beginning to run dry, the government agency said: "The worst is yet to come."
